City to Seek $400,000 Airport Grant

CRAFTON SAYS PORT NEEDED FOR DEFENSE

Director Assembles Data In Preparation For Filing Request With U. S.

SEEKS FOUR RUNWAYS

Program Also Calls For Land Purchase to Enlarge Present Flying Facilities.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton was assembling data today in preparation for filing an application for a government grant of more than $400,000 to improve and develop Mansfield's municipal airport.

Crafton said that he had collected financial, legal, engineering and other information and would submit the request for the improvements to the Defense Public Works division of the Federal Works agency "as a needed defense project." The application will be submitted to the division office in Chicago or to headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Included in the application will be a request for the construction of four concrete runways to replace the rough and boggy soil runways which now hamper use of the port except under ideal weather conditions.

Crafton said he also plans to request three new taxi lanes, the purchase of 50 acres to the north of the present airport which will be needed to extend a special runway for bombers or planes heavier than ordinary.

The application is being made despite information received from Air Corps officials late last fall in which it was pointed out that governmental defense funds will be used only for coastal defense regions and for training fields in the south where the weather is not so changeable or objectional for flight training.

Crafton said that although the Air Corps at that time had been concentrating on the coastal defenses, the application was being made now because it is believed that entrance of this country into

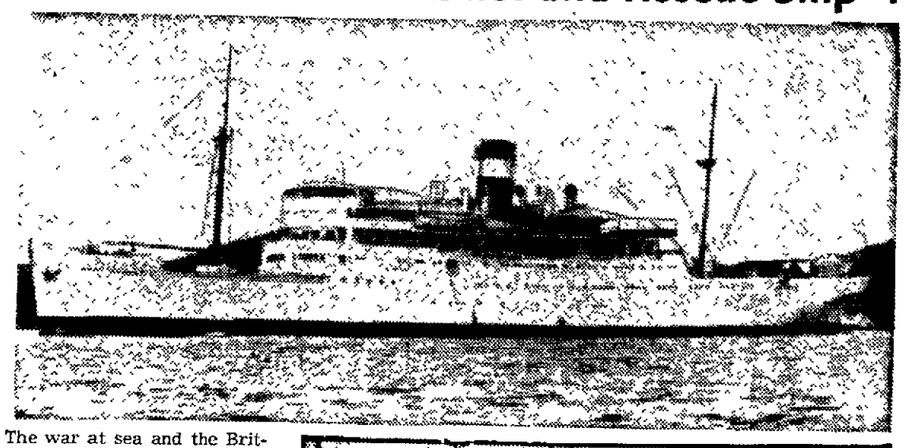
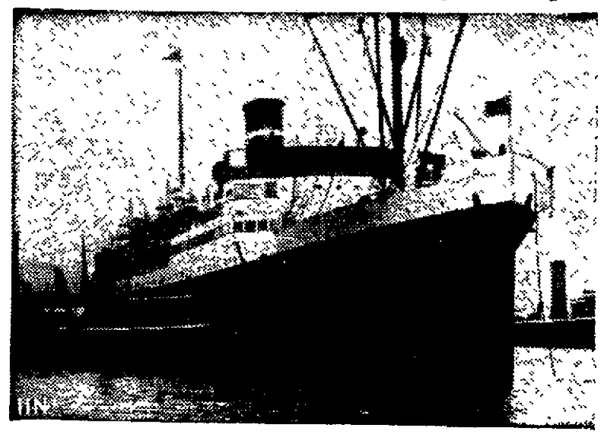
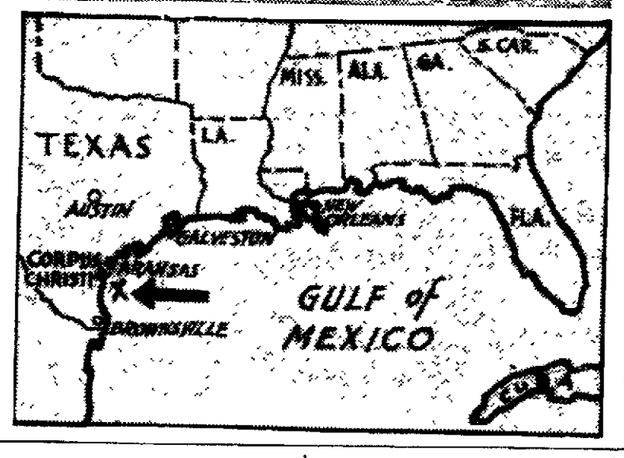
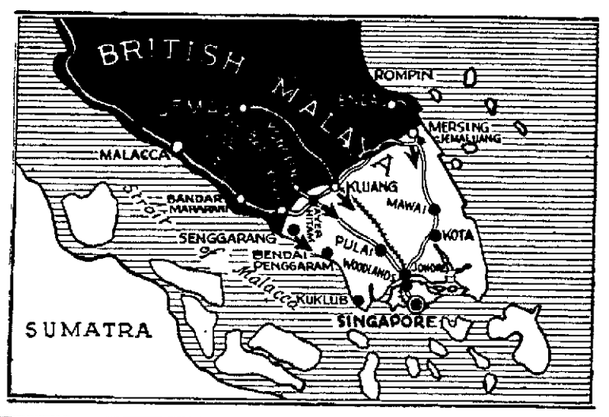
Ill-Fated Canadian Liner and Rescue Ship--How Sea, Land War Shapes Up





The war at sea and the British defense of Singapore today held major interest of Americans. That interest was heightened by the navy department's issuance of communiques in which naval patrol planes reported "Sighted sub; sank same." At top left is Canadian liner, Lady Hawkins, sunk in the Atlantic with a loss of some 250 passengers and crew members. At top right, the steamer Caomo, which picked up 71 survivors of the Lady Hawkins. Map at lower left shows Aransas, Tex., off which town enemy submarine was sighted. Lower right shows the Japanese advance down Malaya peninsula, with their troops now within 18 miles of Singapore, almost within artillery range.





Bloody Battle Rages 18 Miles From Fortress

Japanese Advance Upon Johore Strait As British Admit Situation Grave; Dutch Locked In Fight With Invaders on Borneo Coast.

(By Associated Press)

Japan's invasion hordes stormed within 18 miles of Singapore today, hurling 90,000 troops into a bloody, climactic assault to snatch at the $400,000,000 "crown jewel" of Britain's far Pacific strongholds.

As the battle thundered nearer to the mile-wide Johore strait, separating Singapore island from the Malay peninsula, British headquarters acknowledged the gravity of the situation.

"In the center, there is contact with the enemy about Kulai," a communique said tersely.

Kulai, 18 miles north of the great naval base, lies on a broad highway leading to the Singapore causeway at Johore Bahru. The causeway already has been mined for demolition.

Across the South China sea, Dutch troops were reported locked in bitter fighting with other Japanese invaders in four widely-separated zones of the Indies archipelago—at Balik Papan, on the East Borneo coast; above Pontianak, chief port in West Borneo; on the Minahassa peninsula, in northern Celebes island, and around Kendari in southeastern Celebes.

"Fighting continued not only near Balik Papan but in the town itself," a Dutch bulletin said.

Indies troops previously had destroyed Balik Papan's rich oil fields before the Japanese landed.

The hard-hitting Dutch, fighting brilliantly with the small forces at their command, reported that 54 Japanese ships have been sunk or heavily damaged by the N. E. I. navy and air force in the 54-day-old war.

In the Philippines, a war department bulletin reported only light fighting on Batan peninsula in the past 24 hours, but added:

"The arrival of fresh Japanese troops at the front and movements behind the lines indicate prepartions by the enemy for the resumption of a large-scale offensive."

More than 200,000 Japanese troops have now besieged Gen. Douglas MacArthur's little defense force on Batan for 28 days.

While Japan thrust her invasion tentacles deeper into the South seas, a special bulletin from the German high command asserted that Nazi U-boats operating off the United States and Canada had sunk 43 ships totalling 302,000 tons since the beginning of the war with the United States.

The German claim—adding 13 ships totalling 74,000 tons to previous announcements—was far in excess of anything reported on this side of the Atlantic, where latest figures put the total of Allied merchant ships sunk at 14.

Washington quarters conceded that a new wave of U-boat attacks on American and Canadian shipping was likely, despite United States counter blows which already have sunk or damaged at least 20 Axis submarines.

"Enemy submarines continue to operate off the east coast of the United States and are reported as far south as Florida," the navy warned.

The navy added another underseas raider, to the toll, making public the laconic report of a pilot: "Sighted sub, sank same."

On the Malay front, the Japanese news agency Domei said Japanese troops reached Kulai after capturing the railroad town of

Hitler Harps on Old Theme of 'Injustice'

Assails Roosevelt and Churchill In Address on Ninth Anniversary Of Rise to Power.

BULLETIN

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—(AP)—Adolf Hitler told his people today that "I do not know whether the war will end this year."

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—Speaking for the first time since his declaration of war against the United States, Adolf Hitler assailed President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill today and declared that, excepting his Axis partners, Germany is fighting a new world war against her same old foes.

Most of the address was a reiteration of Hitler's long standing arguments that Germany was persecuted.

He said that even in the last war Prime Minister Churchill was among the English "warmongers" and that President Roosevelt was the right hand of Woodrow Wilson, whom he described as "the man who caused the greatest harm to the German people."

The speech celebrated the ninth anniversary of his elevation as reichschancellor.

Addressing party members, soldiers and representatives of other Axis powers in Berlin, he declared:

"All of us who can remember the last war will still remember that Mr. Churchill was already then one of the meanest warmongers. It is the same powers we fought then which we are fighting today."

Hitler declared that "at the time of the last war Germany was a monarchy and war was forced upon her."

"Today," he said, "Germany is

HUNT SPIES

Irish Seek IRA Suspects and Other German Agents.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland —(INS)—Military authorities and police in Eire and Northern Ireland today started a major hunt for Irish Republican army members suspected of acting as Nazi spies.

Apart from reported parachute landings in Eire, it was stated, a large number of Nazi agents are known to have entered Northern Ireland in recent months. Special orders were issued to American Expeditionary Force camp guards not to allow unauthorized persons near military zones.

It was understood all employes engaged in military and naval construction work in Northern Ireland are undergoing close examination.

BANS CAFES

Army Lists 36 Clubs as 'Off Limits' For Soldiers.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Officials of the army's fifth corps area headquarters today announced a list of 36 cafes, night clubs, parks and other areas in the corps area which have been declared as "off limits" for military personnel.

The list, included 24 Ohio spots, has been forwarded to police authorities throughout the corps area, Assistant Adjutant General E. W. Dennis announced. Trespassing by soldiers in these places constitutes a "military offense," Adj. Gen. Dennis said.

"The fact that certain cafes or regions have been declared 'off limits' for military personnel does not reflect on the character of the institutions," Dennis added.

VETS VOTE TO BUY 'IRON LUNG'

Mansfield Legion Post Makes Major Contribution To Paralysis Fight.

While Mansfield and Richland county joined in celebrating the sixtieth birthday of President Roosevelt today by contributing to the "fight infantile paralysis" fund for which the president has campaigned for many years Earl McVey Post of the American Legion made a major contribution to the cause.

The post, through its executive board, voted today to purchase an iron lung for the use of Mansfield General hospital, according to Sam V. Fox, post commander, thereby becoming one of approximately 50 Legion posts throughout the country to supply their respective hospitals with such vital equipment.

There will be no charge to a patient needing the iron lung, Fox explained, and ways and means for the use of the machine by the hospital will be established by a committee to be appointed by Fox.

The iron lung will cost the post approximately $1,400 and its upkeep at the hospital will also be financed by the organization. Several types of "lungs" are now being considered by the post and it is expected that the equipment will be installed at an early date.

Members of the executive committee who took action today, in addition to the post commander, were: W. E. Bradford, senior vice commander; R. E. Moore, junior vice commander; William J. Schnug, finance officer; Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, chaplain; C. B. Harris, adjutant, and the follow-

Ack-Acks Roar Reply To Foe Over Ulster

AEF Troops on March as Enemy Planes Appear; Eire Hits U. S. Expedition As Violation of Neutrality.

(By Associated Press)

A NORTHERN IRELAND TOWN—Anti-aircraft defense batteries opened fire today when enemy planes appeared over northeastern Ulster. A United States army force of several hundred were out on a route march today, but whether they were in the affected area was not known.

Hundreds of American soldiers, physically fit and ready for a fight, took part in the march through the Northern Ireland countryside, singing as they marched.

As they passed through an Ulster town, they were given a great welcome.

The sentiment of the soldiers was expressed by a group standing in their camp on a former Irish estate.

"We are not surprised at anything any more," they said. "We have traveled 6,000 miles in the last month and a half and surprises have run out.

"From here on we are ready to fight and get this thing over quickly."

The officer commanding this base said his boys, husky midwesterners, are "ready for combat."

Small and secluded, U. S. bases are scattered and are indistinguishable from English soldier huts elsewhere. The huts, of corrugated metal, are like halves of giant casks, lying with the cut side down. The British assign 24 soldiers to each but only 16 Americans are quartered in these huts.

They are heated by coal stoves. Most of the boys miss modern

WE FEED NAZIS!

American Food Sent to France Goes on to Germany.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Some of the American food shipped to France from this country on the assumption that it would be given to American relief organizations for distribution, has found its way into Germany, it was learned on high authority today.

One particular cargo of American food was loaded on a train at Marseilles and started into Unoccupied France, but kept on going into Germany, it was learned.

This case was not isolated, it was said, but most of the other similar cases have involved smaller shipments of food and clothing.

President Roosevelt told a press conference today that this country should continue to send warm clothing and necessary food to foreign countries wherever possible as part of a common war effort.

BOOST RATES

Insurance Companies Take Notice of Submarine Sinking.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Presence of Axis submarines off the Atlantic coast was given official recognition for the first time today by war-risk insurance underwriters.

Rates were boosted but the insurance men still bet 100 to 1 that any coastwise ship would reach its destination. Highest premiums were demanded for insurance on tankers, which have been the particular targets of U-boats. Lower rates were quoted for ordinary vessels.

REPORTS RIOTS

Sidney Broadcast Says Unrest Grows In Thailand.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Public demonstrations "assuming the proportions of riots" are taking place in Japanese-held Thailand, the Sydney, Australia radio quoted Rangoon as saying today in a broadcast heard by NBC.

"The manifestations of protest are directed against Thailand's declaration of war against the ABCD powers," said the Sydney radio.

JAPANESE ARE WORRY ENOUGH

So Official Say's He'll Vouch For MacArthur Taxes.

WAUKEGAN, Ill. —(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur needn't worry about that unpaid income tax any more if, he has worried about it at all.

State's Attorney Harry Hall of Lake county said today he had read that the general, being rather busy showing the Japs how outnumbered American-Filipino forces can fight, hadn't paid his income tax yet.

Hall took immediate steps to remedy that situation, he said, by telegraphing Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morganthau that he would guarantee the account.

RESTS CASE

Government Calls 121 Witnesses In Cemetery Fraud.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—After calling 121 witnesses to establish its case, the federal government today had rested its prosecution of 35 men indicted for fraud and conspiracy in the sale of cemetery lots by Forest Glen, Inc.

The Forest Glen corporation controlled Forest Glen Rest Memorial park at Marion, Glen Haven cemetery at Springfield and Glen Rest at Columbus.

WAITING: Luzon Force Girds For New Lunge at 'Fox Holes'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today that in "the fox holes of Batan and the batteries of Corregidor" his "smoke-begrimed" forces await a large scale new Japanese attack.

The description of MacArthur's men and their positions is his own. The indomitable American commander thus described his forces in a special message to President Roosevelt on the anniversary of his birth.

And to the war department he reported that his men are awaiting a "large scale" Japanese offensive, backed by fresh troops and new armed disposition of enemy forces which have been observed in front of the American defense lines.

MacArthur's message to President Roosevelt said:

Today, Jan. 30, the anniversary of your birth, smoke-begrimed men, covered with the marks of battle, rise from the fox holes of Batan and the batteries of Corregidor, to pray reverently that God may bless immeasurably the president of the United States."

The war department communique which revealed that message reported that a lull continued on the fighting front as the Japanese wheeled new forces into position for new attacks.

"Fighting on the Batan peninsula was light," the communique said. "There was practically no enemy air activity. The arrival of fresh Japanese troops at the front and movements behind the

DRIVES: Reds Pass Kharkov; Axis Forces Retake Bengasi

(By Associated Press)

The ninth anniversary of Adolf Hitler's elevation as chancellor of Germany was chosen by Soviet Russia for announcement of details today of the most spectacular Red army gain in the Donets basin—a 93-mile drive in which 25,000 Germans were reported slain.

On the North African front, British headquarters acknowledged that Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel's "greatly superior" forces had recaptured the port of Bengasi, as announced yesterday in Berlin and Rome.

Twice stressing the Axis numerical superiority, a British communique conceded that British troops were making fresh withdrawals in the entire combat area of western Libya, before heavy attacks.

Informed London quarters said some British forces may have been cut off in Bengasi, trapped by an Axis column which swept around the town to straddle the coast road to the north. Bengasi has changed hands four times in the zig-zag desert warfare.

In Russia, Soviet dispatches reported that Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's armies by-passed the big steel city of Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" of the Ukraine, and now threatened German forces there with encirclement.

The Soviet information bureau announced in a special communique that Red army men paced by Cossack cavalry squadrons had smashed three German divisions and three regiments, pulverizing 50 timber and earth bastions in

President, 60 Today, Working Hard and Full of Vitality

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt is 60 years old today, and in some respects he doesn't act it.

At a time of life when many men would have turned to comfortable retirement, he is working harder than ever. Since war broke out Dec. 7, he has scarcely been out of the White House—and he relishes travel.

His personal physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, says the chief executive is in fine physical and mental fettle. Aside from the deepening of the lines in his face, and the graying and thinning of his hair, almost nine years in the White House have touched him relatively lightly.

In more than 12,000 parties and dances tonight all over the nation, America will celebrate the birthday of the most famous person to overcome the handicap of infantile paralysis. Proceeds of the balls will be spent to help other victims of the dread disease.

In the capital, a galaxy of Hollywood stars helped celebrate Mr. Roosevelt's anniversary. They were invited to a White House luncheon at noon, a dinner and reception tonight, and then were scheduled to make the round of parties and dances tonight, along with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The president will speak during an hour-long radio program, to be

CITY TO BUY TRAFFIC SIGNS

Crafton Announces 550 Will Be Ordered To Place on Mansfield Streets.

City officials today prepared to call for bids for the purchase of 550 traffic control signs. They will be of steel construction

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that the signs will conform with state highway regulations and that some of them will be used to replace signs now being used but which are inadequate for the purpose.

Bids will call for 350 "no parking" signs, 100 "stop" signs and 50 "school" signs. The "no parking" signs will be red on a white background and will be 12 by 18 inches in size. They include 200 "no parking this side of street," signs; 100 "no parking at any time," markers and 50 "no parking to corner," signs.

Stop signs will be larger 24 by 24 inches, and will be printed in black on a yellow background School signs will be the same size and the same color.

The city will also advertise for bids for 30 000 pounds of chlorine for the improvement of the city's water system and sewage treatment This amount will provide the city with a year's supply, the service-safety director said

Pay Dirt Found Beneath the Floor of Assay Shop.

NEVADA CITY, Cal —(U P)— Hal Davis, Nevada city assayer, had a gold strike of his own—and right beneath his office

Davis was moving his office from one of the town's oldest buildings, constructed about 1852, when he discovered gold in dirt on and beneath the floor. Panning yielded about four ounces and Davis constructed a sluice box which he hoped would produce as much more

An assay shop has been housed in the building for many years and it was believed the gold leaked from a melting pot while being made into bricks

The incident recalled the gold rush days practice of selling the sawdust covering the floor of saloons Drinks were paid for with gold dust weighed over the bar and often enough dust escaped to make the sawdust as valuable as high grade ore

VEST-LESS, BELT-LESS SUITS FOR MEN DUE ON MARKET SOON

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A new man's streamlined suit, designed to save wool, eliminate your belt and thereby help win the war is due to hit the fashion market in 30 days, a survey of New York tailors indicates.

The "victory suit," approved by some of the industry's leaders and frowned on by others is minus a vest cuffs, pleats belt or suspenders. You'll have to depend on buttons—similar to those on tight-fitting summer slacks—to keep the trousers up

Such a suit, already approved by the government, was displayed prominently at a fashion clinic of the New York retail men's wear council recently and received a good hand Whether or not it will sell, tailors agreed, depends on how the male will feel about going around without a vest or belt.

James Balletta Madison Avenue tailor, said such suits could retail at 25 per cent less than the present price of a three-piece suit, saving at least three-quarters of a yard of wool per suit. He estimated that if the suit were adopted nationally approximately 30,000 000 yards of wool cloth could be saved yearly

"Vests have never been unanimously popular, particularly in the wearing of double-breasted suits" he said "Cuffs must be eliminated, as well as the high waist in trousers The lapels will be formed as large 'V's"

LET US BE GOOD AMERICANS

From Washington comes word that our Government is much disturbed over the tendency among some people to load up on food, clothing, household goods, and other articles.

The reason our Government is concerned is that hoarding hurts the war effort, creates needless scarcities, and tends to inflate prices . . . all of which could be avoided by a little patriotic cooperation and self restraint.

We are assured that if every good American will pursue his normal habit of buying only what he needs, when he needs it, we will all have enough of practically everything.

We make this statement in a spirit of service and cooperation to our country . . . and we appeal to every loyal American not to hoard anything himself, and to do everything in his power to discourage others from buying more than their normal needs.

Most of the soldiers thus far have kept to camp areas, beginning their training program, arranging their bunks and greeting new buddies. Visiting in town is not general yet but if soldiers do meet Irish men and women they are greeted with a cheery "Hi, Yanks!"

Eire Calls AEF Act of Aggression

DUBLIN—(U.P.)—The government of Eire and Prime Minister Eamon De Valera regard the presence of United States troops in northern Ireland as "aggression against Ireland and a violation of Irish neutrality," a government statement said today.

The statement came two days after De Valera protested that he had not been consulted by Britain and the United States on the landing of an A. E. F. in Northern Ireland.

It said that Eire considered arrival of American troops in the north as "tacit support of the division of north from south and recognition of Britain's Irish policy."

Government quarters, however, denied German reports abroad that De Valera had proclaimed martial law or a state of emgency in Eire as result of the landing of American troops in the north.

"Pure imagination," a government spokesman said of the reports.

But Revenue From Sales Tax Stays Ahead of 1941.

Sales tax receipts in Richland county for the week ending Jan. 17 were more than $4,000 below the preceding week's figures but they were still $728 ahead of collections for the corresponding week last year.

Receipts in the county for the first three weeks of the year totaled $24,092, a drop of only $62 from the total for the first three weeks of 1940.

Collections during the week ending Jan. 17 amounted to $9,739 as against $9,011 for the same week in 1941.

Throughout the state collections showed a marked upturn for the period from Jan. 12-17 and the total so far this year is $39,000 ahead of the three-week collections for January, 1941.

QUASHES CHARGE

Judge Dismisses Case Filed Against Bellville Resident.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch yesterday dismissed a charge of stealing and receiving stolen property filed against Sam Clever, Bellville.

Clever was accused by Mrs. Inez Kent, Columbus, who complained that the Bellville man had taken an electric range and refrigerator she had left on his property when she moved to Columbus.

Judge Kalbfleisch held that evidence given in the case did not substantiate criminal charges. The first action in the case had been filed by Mrs. Kent on July 29, 1938.

line indicate preparations by the enemy for the resumption of a large scale offensive."

The firmness of MacArthur's stand increased the possibility that the Philippines may be turned into a base for long range harassment and guerilla action against Japan.

This prospect was brought to the fore by the declaration of President Manuel Quezon that Japan holds only one-third of the sprawling island group. Two-thirds of Philippine territory scattered among 7,083 islands stands unconquered, controlled by American and Filipino authorities and little touched by the war.

Quezon coupled his statement with a declaration of the "determination of the people of the Phillipines to continue fighting side by side with the United States until victory has been won."

Probably 50,000 men made up the routed units and parts of five other divisions were declared to have suffered considerably.

Battle trophies captured in 10 days were said to include such items as 658 field guns, 40 tanks and armored cars, 943 machineguns, 6,013 automobiles, 438 supply trucks, 2,400 carts and 2,800 horses.

In the river bend ahead of the Soviet spearhead lies Dnieperopetrovsk, an industrial city of 500,000 before the Axis divisions of Field Marshal Eward Von Kleist captured it five months ago.

Beaverbrook to Boss British Production

LONDON —(U.P.)— Lord Beaverbrook is scheduled to assume almost supreme control of Great Britain's war production shortly, and Sir Stafford Cripps, retiring ambassador to Moscow, is to succeed him as supply minister, it was reported today in well informed political quarters.

Beaverbrook, Canadian-born chain newspaper publisher, accompanied Prime Minister Winston Churchill to Washington where an agreement for co-ordination of American and British war production was reached.

In his new office, it is understood, Lord Beaverbrook will handle Britain's part of the co-ordination.

He had served as minister for aircraft production and then was promoted to the war cabinet and made supply minister.

Cripps, just returned from Moscow at his request, was expected to enter the war cabinet as supply minister.

Confidence In War Leadership

WHILE the practically unanimous "vote of confidence" given Prime Minister Winston Churchill by the British house of commons yesterday may appear as little more than a formality, it serves as an outward expression of internal unity which has great value at this particular time.

The impression made on Americans by Winston Churchill, on the occasion of his recent visit to this country, is that he is a strong and capable man, properly placed in his present high position as head of the British government and director of that nation's war effort.

It is good to know that this impression is concurred in by the people of Britain and that he is assured continuance of their whole-hearted support through the dark days of war and into the brightness of restored peace after victory.

Happenings of this month may well be kept in mind as marking entry into a new phase of the war against the Axis powers, and one which will lead resolutely through the year to ultimate defeat of the totalitarian attempt to inflict a reign of savagery upon hitherto free peoples of the world.

Without a vote to express confidence in the leadership of President Roosevelt, as commander in chief of American military forces, the people of this country have evidenced that confidence by speedy and earnest response to every call of government for support of the nation's war effort, and by expression of willingness to make whatever present and future sacrifices are necessary to carry on to victory.

American soldiers are now in northern Ireland, in Iceland, in the Philippines, and in a number of other undisclosed places; American ships and planes are guarding the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and are already spreading effectively through the Far East war zones, and there is day and night production of more and more instruments of war, with men in readiness or in training to use them.

South America has joined in hemispheric unity to accomplish defeat of the Axis powers and Russia, China, and others of the United Nations have been heartened and strengthened in their gallant struggle by realization that new and strong allies are now battling with them.

There will be hard days ahead, sad days for many people, but as the weeks and months pass, good news will gain dominance over bad—until finally there will again be the glad tidings: "Hostilities have ended, peace has come."

And when peace comes it may at least be hoped that its problems will be more intelligently handled than were those of the "peace" which followed the armistice in 1918.

Heroic Defense Holds Midway

A BELATED REPORT that Midway island defenders successfully withstood the Japanese assault on Dec. 7, and is still in American hands, provides a pleasant interlude in the series of distressing occurrences of that fateful day and the succeeding weeks—during which gallantly defended Wake and helpless Guam were seized by Japan.

Not until seven weeks after the attack was it announced that the Midway marine garrison, 1,300 miles west of Hawaii and 1,200 miles northeast of Wake, had been held by a small force of U. S. marines.

There had been an assumption that Midway island had also been taken by the Japanese and passage of weeks without any word after that terse: "Midway is still holding out, and that's that," left the fate of the island and its defenders in doubt until the marine corps announced that attackers had been driven off.

Shown on maps as no more than a dot in the great expanse of ocean, the retention of Midway as an outpost for United States military action in the Pacific may be more important than is now realized.

No More Nickel for Nickels

SINCE the five-cent-piece contains only 25 per cent nickel, as against 75 per cent copper, proposed substitution of silver for the nickel would seem to present no name-changing problem, as the "nickel" may as well retain that name as find another—never having earned that designation in the first place. "Jitney" is also acceptable slang for "nickel," if you prefer it.

Copper and silver in equal parts are being considered in the proposal to eliminate nickel from coinage so that this scarce metal can be conserved for war purposes. The idea of using silver in minor coinage need occasion no surprise as silver is so plentiful that the appearance of high value is maintained only by limiting output and pegging the price at a fictitious high level—as has also been done with gold, of which supply is far in excess of requirements.

The important thing, in changing the metal content of the nickel, is to make sure that there is no change in size, as the nickel is now used to operate so many legal and illegal contrivances that any change of size would result in widespread confusion.

Make the nickel of what you will, just so it's kept the same size still.

Greed Brings Sugar Rationing

SELDOM does retribution come so soon upon selfishness, and seldom does the punishment fit the offense so neatly as in the case of rationing sugar. At the mere mention that there might possibly be a sugar shortage, housewives by thousands rushed out to buy sugar in unusual quantities. They were determined to have enough sweet stuffs in their own households no matter what happened to other people. The direct result of that greed is the rationing of sugar for everyone.

But seldom, too, does the community escape so lightly from the results of an anti-social move like this sugar buying. For there will still be enough sugar to satisfy all reasonable human needs. Three-quarters of a pound per person per week will take care of this.

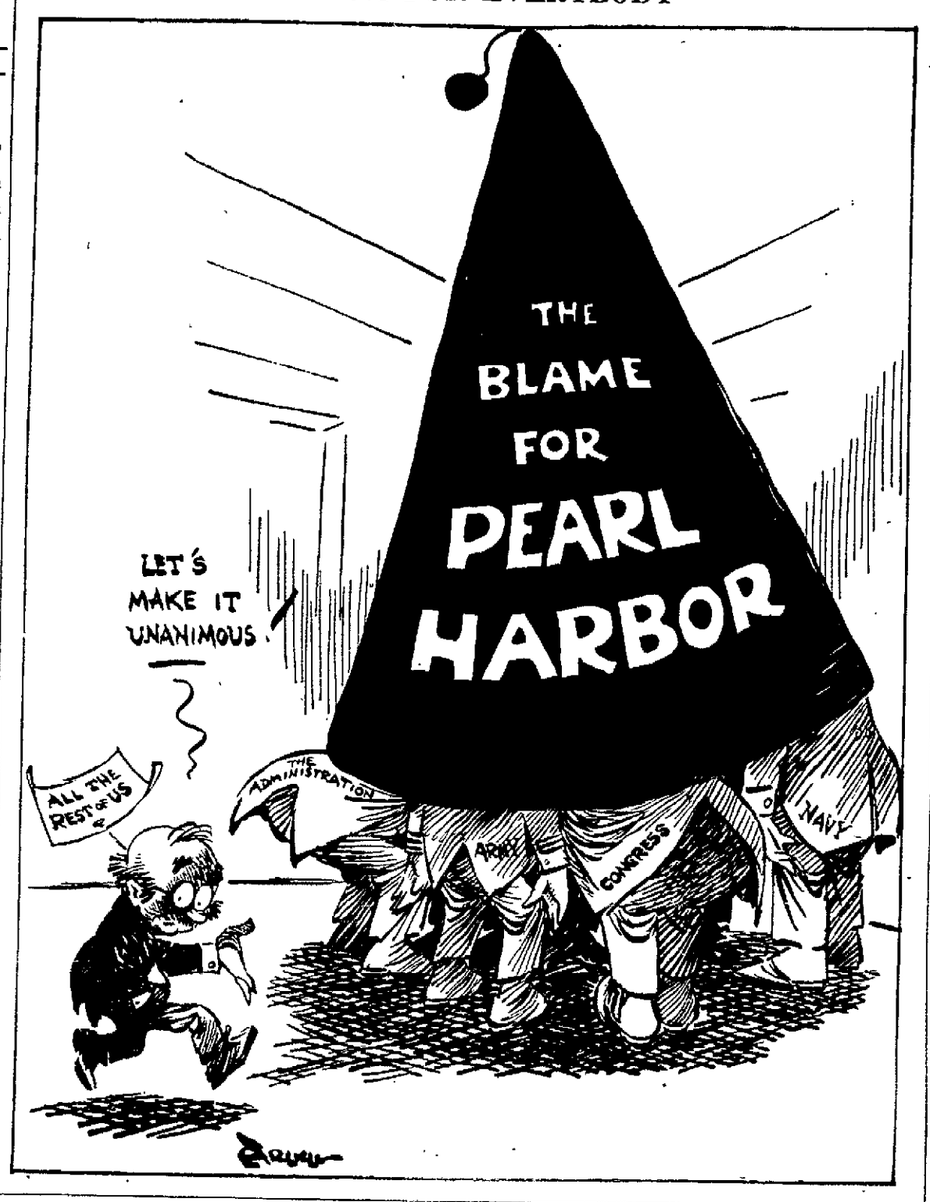
There will be fewer rich desserts in the ensuing months, but this will hurt neither children nor grown-ups.

It appears to have originated as a classified ad in the San Francisco Chronicle, worded thus: "Gentleman with 1941 Pontiac desires to meet lady with four new tires, object matrimony."

Cutting down and burning the forests is all right, an expert reports, if we don't mind losing the birds and letting the insects take over.

There are said to be 200,000 persons in the United States who wear toupes—with probably 199,999 of them thinking it's a secret.

ROOM FOR EVERYBODY



'United Nations' Title Popular

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

ANTI-AXIS countries, signatory to the pact under which each pledged itself to make no separate peace with the totalitarians, are known now as the United Nations. It isn't merely "united nations," minus any capitalization, but "U. N.," as in U. S. or some similar designation.

The name's virtually become official and may appear in the next editions of geographies and other works of reference.

It has its conveniences for present purposes. For awhile it was proper to speak of the anti-Axis alignment as the "democracies," but that classification doesn't quite fit, now that Russia's included in the aggregation, and saying "anti-Axis" every time was getting monotonous. The ABCD democracies can be United Nations in combination with the Soviet Muscovites, though, and no inconsistency whatever's involved in labeling the quintet accordingly.

The United Nations, in framing itself up, hit on quite a cute method of unifying their war effort against the common enemy.

It had been recognized that their multiplicity of campaigns needed consolidating, to give maximum effect to them jointly. The difficulty was that this seemed to require a single supreme commander at the head of all their forces—an American to give orders to British, Chinese, Dutch and Russians, or a Briton or a Chinese or a Dutchman or a Russian to boss everybody, ourselves included. Now, it didn't appear very likely that any one of the United Nations' group would care to acquiesce in such a surrender of authority to one of the others.

No Top Man Named.

The United Nation fixers dodged the possibility of any such friction by the simple process of splitting the war into major theaters, with a military stage manager, of a different nationality from all the rest, in charge of each of them. Illustratively, General Sir Archibald Wavell's on the job, as a Briton, in the southwestern Pacific. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's running things on the Asiatic mainland and, Premier Joseph Stalin's to make his own selection for continental Europe's benefit.

And the United States? Where's our major theater? And who's our stage manager in it?

Why, the truth is that the United Nation organizers didn't specify very clearly on these points. Not that they had the slightest intention of circumscribing us. Quite the contrary.

If they limited us to some particular theater, they were afraid we'd disregard the others, and they wanted to keep us responsible for the entire earth's surface—against, of course, the Axis. As for our stage manager, President Roosevelt is "it," 100 per cent.

Roosevelt Is No. 1.

As a strict matter of fact, in the strictest confidence, for it would make the BCDR fractions of the United Nations jealous to realize it, Roosevelt is the supreme commander over all. But they don't dare to point too overobviously, lest they antagonize themselves. Winston Churchill's a high-up deputy, but not the main squeeze of the United Nations, bodily.

Lately it's suggested that the United Nations, while a wartime amalgamation for war purposes, should slop over into the subsequent peacetime, to rearrange the world, as it wasn't successfully rearranged after the last war.

Pessimists already doubt that it can be done after this one, either, but, with some folk, "hope springs eternal."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Jan. 30, 1922.

Students in history and civics class of Mansfield high school attended court session to observe procedure.

Fifty members of Madison lodge Knights of Pythias, went to Crestline on special interurban car to attend meeting.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Lane, Marion avenue.

Stewart J. Irwin resigned as president of Exchange club to return to former position in Coshocton.

Jackie Coogan in "Peck's Bad Boy" was screen attraction at the Majestic.

Mrs. W. H. Ohlinger, 118 Prospect street, was called to Canton by serious illness of her father.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Jan. 30, 1937.

President's ball, in celebration of the 55th birthday of President Roosevelt, was held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Mrs. Eliza Willis, 80, died at her home at 102 West Prospect street.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Barrett, 369 Second avenue.

Miss Clara Smaltz, 136 Marion avenue, was confined to her home by illness.

Louis E. Rahn was appointed to teach history at Mansfield Senior high school to succeed G. B. Snedeker.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was born on the family estate at Hyde Park, N. Y., on the east bank of the Hudson river, on Jan. 30, 1882, son of James Roosevelt, who died Dec. 8, 1900, and the latter's wife, Sara Delano, who died in 1941. In August 1921, while at his summer home at Campobello, New Brunswick, he was stricken with infantile paralysis which left him with his legs paralyzed. The healing waters of Warm Springs, Ga., proved beneficial and it was he who established the foundation there to help sufferers without means to obtain treatment.

Listen World!

Don't Be Contented!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SOMETHING gone wrong just when you thought you were sitting pretty at last? And you're disgusted enough to quit?

"Are things always going to be like this?" you cry. "Won't I ever get the breaks?"

No. Never the breaks you want. Of this you may be sure—whatever you get out of life it won't be enough.

If you're a healthy human, you'll never be perfectly happy, comfortable or satisfied. You'll always be wanting something, rebelling against something. You'll be discontented. But there's nothing abnormal about that. You shouldn't grieve over it. Or peeve over it. Still less should you settle down and try to be resigned.

Accept discontent as a normal and necessary condition of your life—and thank God for it!

For the day you're satisfied, completely contented, that day you'll be through . . . that day you'll be as through with this life as though you had died.

You can't go on living and be satisfied. If you're satisfied, you stay put. If you're living, you push on. And pushing on is bound to mean discontentment and rebellion. Growth is just one dissatisfaction after another.

You and I are here today because, billions of years ago, a one-celled gob in a primeval swamp rebelled. Wanted two cells instead of one. Got all swelled up with discontent until it expanded into two cells—and then grew on and on—through countless discontents—until there came a creature with a brain and soul called man.

That's the scientific story of life.

And the Bible's story—

"And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; And man became a living soul."

A little dumb dust in the great hand of God—and that was all man was at first—until God filled him with the breath of life.

What was the secret of that breath? What did the great busy God do to a little dumb dust to turn it into a man—made in His image?

He breathed into that dust His own wish for life . . . His own creative restlessness . . . His own divine discontent. God had discontent. That old Book of Genesis is the story of the magnificent, insatiable discontent God wasn't satisfied with an empty sky, a sterile earth. He hung new stars within that sky. He planted trees within that earth. And from dumb dust He made — His partner — to share His discontent—to share the glory and the grief of discontent.

Do not peeve or grieve about discontent. Do not try to make yourself resigned. Accept it! Be glad for it! Get busy with it! It is the most sacred gift you have!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Claim Title Needed By Knudsen To Get Results With Army Men

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina, newlywed chairman of the military affairs committee, only told part of the story in announcing the "unanimous" approval of William Knudsen's appointment as a lieutenant general.

There was no unanimity when the committee began considering the matter behind closed doors. One senator did some furious objecting before he was finally calmed down and persuaded to be unanimous.

The dissenter was isolationist Senator Rufus Holman of Oregon, who put Under Secretary of War Robert Patterson through a stiff grilling on the ex-OPM director's "fitness" for the high military rank.

"I'm against these 'jump' promotions of civilians in the armed services," snorted Holman. "Knudsen has no military qualifications. He didn't come up through the ranks like other officers. What will his job be?"

"He will be assigned to speed up production on army contracts," replied Patterson calmly. "I suppose you might call him my chief of staff."

"Will he have any military command or authority?" persisted Holman.

"No, sir, he will serve in a civilian capacity."

"Well, why give him this high military rank then, if he's to have civilian duties?" snapped Holman with a triumphant air.

"You're getting on rather delicate ground, Senator," smiled Patterson. "My best answer would be that Mr. Knudsen will be dealing directly with many army officers, acting as inspectors and in other capacities in war industries, and he will command more respect, and probably get better cooperation, if he's wearing a uniform."

"You know, Senator," Patterson added slyly, "most officers don't like to take orders from a civilian."

"Who will be Mr. Knudsen's immediate superior officer?" demanded Holman.

"I will, Senator," said Patterson. "It's to be a purely civilian arrangement, except that we need a man of Mr. Knudsen's genius to keep plants with army contracts humming at top speed. We feel he can do the job better if he has a general's rank. I might add that Mr. Knudsen feels the same way."

Repeal In Rio.

THE DAY before the Pan-American conference opened in Rio, the state department in Washington published a new supplement to the Latin-American anti-Nazi blacklist. Most of the 56-page document consisted of new names, but the last page was a list of deletions—firms formerly blacklisted and now restored to good standing.

Under "Brazil," were the names of four firms which had the word "Cervejaria" as part of their title. "Cervejaria" is brewery in Portuguese and the deletions meant that Brazil's four leading breweries were being removed from the proscribed list.

This action was taken on January 14. The conference opened January 15.

Wary Gravy-Trainer.

YOU CAN write it down that Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard is going to be very chary about using that gravy-train veto power the farm lobby voted him in the price control bill.

He knows that the White House is still sputtering over his unauthorized endorsement of this lobby scheme at a crucial moment in the senate fight over the legislation. Also, that if he attempts to exercise the power he is liable to be slapped down even harder than when he fronted for the lobby.

Actually, under cover, Wickard has promised in effect to be a good boy.

It didn't leak out at the time, but during the secret deliberations of the joint senate-house conference committee on the bill, he wrote the committee a letter repudiating his previous endorsement and saying he didn't want the veto power over farm prices.

Wickard wrote this letter under White House pressure. He knew he was in bad and he tried to square himself.

But for the administration, the backdown was too late. The damage had been done, for the amendment was in the bill and the lobby's pals on the joint committee were in a powerful position to stand pat.

In this final bitter fight, two Alabama Democrats and a Michigan Republican were responsible for the retention of the gravy-train provision. They were Senator John H. Bankhead and Representative Henry B. Steagall of Alabama, and Representative Jesse P. Wolcott of Michigan.

As the amendment originated in the senate, under the rules, it was necessary for the house conferees to propose deletion. Steagall, chairman of the house group, publicly makes a great show of being a red hot administrationite. But behind the closed doors of the committee room, he adamantly refused to heed Roosevelt's pleas for elimination of the lobby amendment.

Backed by Wolcott, who fought the vital war bill from the start, and with Bankhead running interference in the senate group, Steagall forced the retention of the provision.

Another Row.

WICKARD'S fronting for the farm lobby in the price control bill, isn't the only row he's had on this score with inner administration leaders.

The papers are full of stories about a big crop expansion program this year to meet the food needs of U. S. war allies. Frequent press releases issue from the busy publicity staff of the agriculture department about grandiose plans.

The real inside is that Wickard didn't get busy on these plans until he was practically ordered to do so by Vice President Henry Wallace as head of the Economic Warfare board.

Wallace sent Wickard two sharp letters demanding prompt action to expand crop production and only then did Wickard bestir himself.

Certain farm elements are against crop expansion, on the ground that scarcity makes for better prices. Working through politically-minded Triple A officials, who have a lot of influence with Wickard, the anti-expanders kept him on the fence until Wallace jarred him off.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Did you know? Back in the old Brooklyn Vitagraph studios, Adolphe Menjou got a $5 a day job because he looked like John Barrymore. When Barrymore walked on the set he took a quick gander at Menjou and raged, "Get that fellow off the set—he looks like me!" Menjou, dejected, walked off. After the shooting, Barrymore went up to him. "Look, kid," he said, "go up to the makeup department, put on a beard, and I'll get you a part in the picture." Ten minutes later a bearded extra joined the company making "Nearly a King" . . . And that's why Adolphe Menjou has always worn a heavy mustache in pictures.

A Farmer's Diary

At the Fur Dealer's

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AFTER the boy had gone to bed he called down, "Daddy, wake me early. I want to go along with you to town and take the 'possums in." At six I called him and almost in a dream he came down to dress. It was an hour before his usual time.

The eastern sky showed hints of dawn when we walked out to the car. Driving along, we saw lights in our neighbors' barns and heard the roosters crow. We passed only a few cars on the main highway and when we reached the village, low in the river valley, it seemed to rest in quiet sleep.

We stopped at a business place that was just opening, and inquired of the merchant where a fur dealer lived. "He lives beyond the bridge, the last house on the west of the level stretch close against the hill," he told us. We parked in front of a low-built house sided mostly with heavy building paper, and the boy followed after me up the walk, with the bag of 'possums over his shoulder. A padlock was on the door, but a truck was standing near. Soon we heard a voice call from the rear door of an adjacent house, "I'll be there in a few moments."

A middle-aged, slender man came up the narrow walk, unlocked the door and invited us in. It was no dwelling, but a dealers' warehouse and workshop. On the north side of the first room we entered hung 22 red fox pelts, and one grey. "And where did these come from," I asked.

"Just from in and out and around these hills," he suggested, interested and somewhat amused by our curiosity. From the ceiling hung a score of curing skunk skins, stretched on pointed boards. More than a hundred dried muskrat hides were neatly piled on the floor. Two green mink hides hung from rails—these he said were worth $9 each, the rats, $1.65 and the foxes, $5.

He opened other doors and there were heaps of rabbit skins, scores of coonskins, a weasel hide and several hides from beeves, butchered by farmers and sold. The place was not unclean, but the mingled odors of all these drying skins was nothing delicate or weakling.

When we returned the 'possums had cleared the untied sack and were roaming about the room at will. He showed us a stack of pelts from full grown 'possums. "These weighed nine pounds. Yours are just youngsters. I'll give you forty cents." He took from his wallet a quarter, a dime and a nickel. The school boy ran, with a bright face, to school—having learned about furs, and jingling his money pleasantly in his pocket.

RESUME CHECK ON T. B. CASES

Physician, X-Ray Equipment To Start Examinations at Lucas, Ontario.

Continuing a check on the extent of tuberculosis in Richland county, Dr. Wilmot Peirce announced today that examination permission cards had been sent to parents of junior class pupils in the Lucas and Ontario high schools.

Next Wednesday Dr. Peirce, acting for the Richland Tuberculosis association, will move portable x-ray equipment, made possible by the gift last fall of a Mansfield industrialist, to the schools and photograph lungs of pupils whose parents have given permission for the examination.

X-ray pictures will be sent to the city health department where they will be studied to spot infections.

Treatment of cases will be turned over to family physicians.

Completion of the work at the two schools will leave only three to be examined. These are Madison, Shelby and Union township high schools.

NAME OFFICERS

SHELBY—Young Men's class of First Methodist church will elect officers Sunday.

Present officials include John Gray, president; Dawson Swisher, vice president and Dale Wilcox, secretary-treasurer.

90,000 CLASH IN BATTLE FOR PACIFIC BASE

Japs Press Advance To Point 18 Miles From Singapore; Borneo Fight Rages.

Sedenak, eight miles north, last night.

British reports last night indicated that imperial troops were fiercely opposing the Japanese on a line roughly 30 to 40 miles north of the strait, through Rengit, Layang-Layang and Ulu Sedili from left flank to right.

A 9 p. m. curfew was imposed by Lieut. Gen. A. E. Percival, commander in Malaya, as a precautionary step to ease patrol work and curb fifth column activity on the island.

Japanese air raiders struck again, by night and by day. Their toll Wednesday was officially listed at 105 killed, 243 injured.

Rangoon, protected by American volunteer group pilots known as Flying Tigers and British pilots, was raided again last night and five Allied planes were downed, a Domei report declared.

Domei's Tokyo broadcast did not mention Japanese losses, but the Allied squadrons have claimed a total of at least 111 of the raiders against inconsequential defense casualties since the attacks on Rangoon began.

Naval operations in the island-strewn southwest Pacific—highlighted by estimates that the Japanese have lost as many as 46 vessels sunk or damaged from a 100-ship armada in Macassar strait—led to a belief in Washington that Japan must soon risk parts of her main fleet to further the invasion of the Indies.

Experts pointed out that naval, air and land strength of Japan was far extended. Continuing and devastating Allied attacks were forecast.

In Melbourne, concerned over Japanese footholds on several Australian islands, an authoritative source said headquarters of the Pacific council would be established in Washington.

There the council, made up of representatives of Britain, Australia, New Zealand and the Netherlands East Indies, would work alongside the combined chiefs of staff committee.

Nazis Claim 13 Vessels Sunk

BERLIN — (By Official German Wireless) —(INS)— Nazi U-boats raiding shipping off the Atlantic coast of the United States and Canada have sunk 13 vessels to date, the German high command claimed in today's communique.

(The U. S. navy department had confirmed attacks on 11 American or United Nations ships, with sinking of 10.)

The sumbarine of a Captain Kals "excelled in these successes," said the communique.

Total sinkings to date accounted for 74,000 tons of United Nations shipping, said the communique.

"Day and night" attacks on the British Mediterranean island of Malta were said to have been made. These raids "caused heavy damages" and prevented repair work, the high command claimed.

Dutch Report 54 Jap Ships Hit

BATAVIA —(INS)— Maintaining the enviable average of one ship a day, air and naval forces of the Dutch East Indies have sunk or heavily damaged 54 Japanese vessels of all classifications in the first 54 days of the Pacific war, according to an official summary released today.

At the same time, N. E. I. military headquarters said that hard-fighting Dutch troops and Guerilla warriors were stubbornly resisting Japanese invaders on four sectors of the battlefront.

An intense struggle was reported under way on the northern portion of Dutch West Borneo, where the Japs yesterday launched a seaborne and overland assault on Pontianak.

Fighting also was believed to be continuing in the Kendari region of Celebes Island.

Fierce Fight Rages Near Moulmein

RAGOON —(INS)— A fierce engagement between British Imperial troops and Japanese and Thai soldiers has developed east of Moulmein, and fighting continues, an official communique declared today.

The situation in Southern Burma was said to be "well in hand."

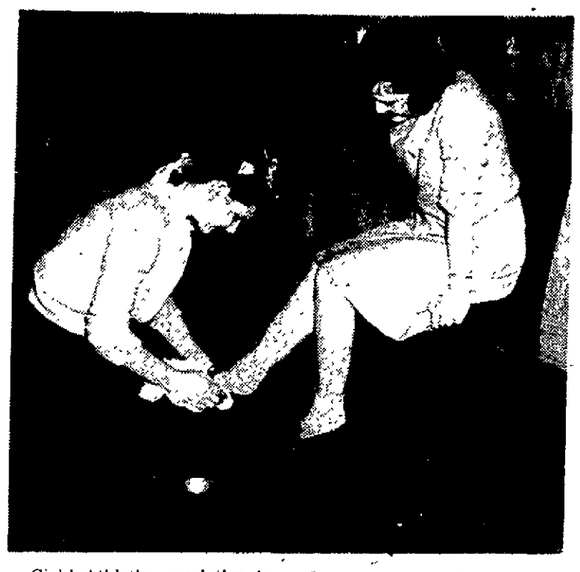
AIDS RED CROSS

Judge Turns Over Coins Taken From Slot Machines.

CHICAGO — (INS) — The Red Cross was richer today by several dollars in nickels and dimes taken from three slot machines seized in a gambling raid.

Judge Jay A. Schiller of the jury court ordered the money turned over to the Red Cross after the machines were destroyed in his chambers.

As Appleseed Junior High Girls Were Initiated Into G. A. A.



Girls' Athletic association initiation proceedings completed, life at Johnny Appleseed junior high school went back to normal today following a two-day period when more than 50 girl pupils appeared to be somewhat mentally disarranged. Wednesday the initiates were required to attend classes garbed in "wrong-side-out" clothes and carrying a doll baby. Yesterday when the above pictures were snapped they had to wear their newly washed hair in braids, carry a skillet and cloth with which to dust the shoes of old members. Dorothy Bierly is shown in the picture at the right dusting the shoes of Anne Ford while at the left Jackie Fonkalsrud and Donna Reese are pictured between classes with their skillets in hand.

CITY TO SEEK $400,000 FUND

Crafton Assembles Data For Airport Improvements For Submission To U. S.

the war may have changed Air Corps plans.

"The need for a better airport in Mansfield is increasing every day," said Crafton. "With our manufacturers getting more and more defense orders and the possible need for the delivery of machine parts to speed their defense machinery, it is not hard to see the benefits resulting from an improvement plan."

The director also pointed out that the Army has need for smaller airports throughout Ohio to use if it becomes necessary to distribute large air units about the state to protect them from attack.

Part of the proposed improvement program comes from an airport survey made by the Junior Association of Commerce last year. Although this group has never made any recommendations to the city officially, a large part of the plans for the port's development will be borrowed from JAC files.

Purchase of an additional 50 acres to the north of the port would call for the relocation of a county road, known as Airport road.

Crafton was authorized to make application for the government aid by city council at its regular January meeting. At least two conferences have been held with Federal Works agency officials at Detroit.

Plans for the improvement of the port call for 143,610 square yards of concrete paving, 26,000 cubic yards of excavation, and the laying of more than 16,000 feet of drain tile to drain the east side of the field and the new strip, if acquired.

HARD AT WORK, FDR REACHES 60

carried by all four major networks, beginning at 11:15 p. m. (EST).

Otherwise, it was work as usual for the president on his birthday, just as it has been every day since the attack on Pearl Harbor.

War has altered the presidential routine to a marked extent. He makes fewer appointments with persons who merely want to come in and "pay their respects." His daily calling list is comprised largely of people who play a major role in the war effort.

Churchill Sends Birthday Message

LONDON —(AP)— Prime Minister Churchill sent President Roosevelt a birthday message and the United States executive's 60th anniversary was widely observed in Great Britain today. Congratulations also were sent to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth and Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands.

MOSCOW —(AP)— The government newspaper Izvestia printed a long biography of President Roosevelt today, quoting Premier Stalin's tribute to the American executive's "initiative, courage and determination."

FREDERICKTOWN MERCHANT DIES

Harry Fox, 59, Was Native Of Knox County.

FREDERICKTOWN — A lifelong resident of Fredericktown and a merchant here for a number of years, Harry Fox, 59, died at his home Thursday following a lingering illness.

Surviving are his widow, Elizabeth; a son, Charles, and a brother, Newton, both of Fredericktown; and two sisters, Mrs. R. W. Taylor of Mt. Vernon; and Mrs. Emma Johnson of Sparta.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Meredith funeral home. Rev. W. W. Grant, pastor of the Methodist church will officiate. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

DRIVER STABBED

Body Found With Coat Button Clutched In Hand.

DETROIT—(INS)—Raymond St. Peter, 38, employed as a chauffeur for a prominent Detroit family, died today in Receiving hospital a short time after he was found stabbed beside his employer's limousine.

Clutched in his right hand was a bluish, green button which police believed had been torn from a woman's tailored suit.

The only public party celebrating the President's Birthday in Richland county will be held tonight at the Mansfield Coliseum. Harry Denis, manager, is sponsoring a skating party and giving 50 per cent of the proceeds to the "March of Dimes."

Defense savings stamps will be given as prizes by the county committee for the President's Birthday, headed by Mrs. Louise M. Reese, while the grand prize will be donated by Sam Fox, jeweler.

Judges named by the committee include Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, Earl Gaar, R. B. Gardner, Mrs. Harry Denis, Marshall C. Moore, Mrs. William Bell, Miss Mary K. Newcomer and John F. Correll.

The "March of Dimes" in Richland county this year is expected to be greater than ever, according to Mrs. Reese, who said that early donations totalling $296 indicated a record fund. The coin containers scattered throughout the county will be collected and their contents estimated by Feb. 6, she said.

COLONELCY? WELL, THE SERGEANT HAD A NICE DATE, AT ANY RATE

(By Wide World)

NEW YORK—A fellow who runs a model agency and hires out lots of pretty girls for advertising work got a funny letter the other day.

The writer, a soldier, wanted to know about a girl who had been in a newspaper and window card ad. The men in his regiment, he related, kept going into town from camp and appropriating the cards with her picture on them from store windows.

"Things got so bad," he related, "that it was necessary to put a regimental order through forbidding the taking of all such advertising from stores."

What the writer wanted to know was, who was she? Did she have that kind of a face and figure, or did the retouchers in the art department have a field day working on her. This was important because the regiment wanted to give her an honorary commission as colonel.

The return address was general delivery, Washington, D. C.

A few days later the model agency man got a letter from the regiment's press relations officer, offering guardedly to push the honorary colonelcy along "in a purely unofficial way."

This, also, was from general delivery, Washington, D. C.

The model agency man telephoned the girl with the face and figure. Did she want to be an honorary colonel for some soldiers, whereabouts unknown? She replied well, yes, that would be nice, but how did she go about it?

"I don't know exactly," said the agency man. "You know how it is these days. The only address I've got is General Delivery, Washington, D. C."

The girl with the face and figure said hm-m-m, that was a funny one.

"I should be very happy to become your honorary colonel," she wrote the original inquirer in care of the postmaster, Washington, D. C., "but what do I do to become same?"

Sgt. Fred L. Baehler, former newspaper man and magazine editor in New York, arrived practically by the next train. They had cocktails and dinner, and pretty soon the face-and-figure girl said, what about the honorary colonelcy?

Oh yes, said Sergeant Baehler, coming back as from a dream, the colonelcy. Well, she knew how things were nowadays, with the censorship. The whole thing was up to the adjutant general in Washington. Where the regiment was constituted a military secret.

But he certainly would do the best he could.

This is merely to report that the sergeant had a lovely weekend and said he was going to report back to the boys that she was prettier than the picture on the window cards.

That's how matters stood today between Miss Athalia Ponsell, of Manhattan, formerly of Jacksonville, Fla., and the 212th Coast Artillery, wherever it is.

CHARLOTTE FEAMAN, JOSEPH PREWITT WED

Rev. David N. Roller Performs Quiet Ceremony for Couple In Home of Bride's Parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Feaman.

MISS CHARLOTTE FEAMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Feaman, 811 Andover road, exchanged nuptial vows Thursday in the home of her parents with Joseph Prewitt, son of Mrs. Lida Prewitt of Martinsville, Ind. Rev. D. N. Roller performed the quiet ceremony at 3:30 p. m. in the presence of the immediate families. Bowls of red and white carnations decorated the room.

For her wedding the bride wore a white wool street length frock with a shoulder corsage of red carnations. Her only jewelry was a gold bracelet that had belonged to her great-grandmother. Mr. Feaman gave his daughter in marriage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 30 friends and relatives of the couple. Luncheon was served from a long table decorated with red and white carnations and lighted tapers and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

The couple is now on a wedding trip. For traveling Mrs. Prewitt wore a powder blue tailored suit with brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of yellow jonquils. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Prewitt, mother of the bridegroom of Martinsville, Ind., and Miss Geneva Feaman, aunt of the bride, of Indianapolis, Ind.

The former Miss Feaman was graduated from New Trier high school in Winnetka Ill., and will graduate in June from DePauw university at Greencastle, Ind., where she is majoring in home economics. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and T. T chapter of P. E. O. Mr. Prewitt graduated from Martinsville high school and will also graduate from DePauw university in June. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity and is majoring in economics. The couple will reside at 707 Locust street in Greencastle upon their return from their wedding trip on Sunday.

During the past week Mrs. Robert Cummins, Mrs. H. F. McGrath, Mrs. Robert Beattie and Mrs. Fred Hout have entertained for Mrs. Prewitt.

Be Footloose And Fancy Free

By MME. QUI VIVE

When your beauty reporter sees a pretty girl toddling over cold, sloppy pavements in thin shoes with spiked heels, she feels that she would like to lay a severe hand upon her. The most ordinary intelligence should tell one that the feet should be kept warm, that they should be properly shod for the occasion. The lady of fashion never appears ridiculous. Her attire is fitting. Spiked heels were never intended for street wear. For what they were intended we have yet to find out—unless it is to make feminine pedals miserable.

Abuse and misuse of the feet, lack of exercise, the wearing of ill-fitting shoes, may cause the bones to become misplaced and the arches to sag. Discomfort is the penalty. Deformities may appear that require surgical attention. Callouses form in the middle of the ball of the foot when the heel is not the right height. If the shoe is too narrow or too short corns grow, toes contract, nails turn in.

Compression means that the feet weaken and perspire freely. Circulation is sluggish and human pedals are in fine condition to pick up infection.

The distress is not limited to the trotters, often extends to remote parts of the body. There may result stubborn headaches, backaches, fatigue, unruly nerves, spinal disorders, even neuritis.

With the heels unduly elevated, body balance is lost; without body balance the silhouette cannot have trimness and grace. Shoulders are thrown forward, abdominal fibers slack up.

Shoe manufacturers report that, although they employ hygienic specialists to design sensible shoes, many cash customers demand silly looking boots and spikes. They give the women what they want. We'll say this much; any business woman who clumps through the day's job on high heels lacks judgment. She may be smart, but not as smart as she should be. The boss has eyes in his head and ears with which to hear. He hates the clack and clatter of heels. He may, some grouchy day, decide to dispense with the racket, and the job is lost by the fair one.

When purchasing shoes, don't insist upon a certain size, the one you have been wearing. Foot contours change with the years. Have the foot measured; it is the only way to determine the right size. Try on both shoes, walk arond the shop. Have the fitting late in the afternoon: feet are a bit smaller in the morning, believe it or not. Throw your weight on one feet, then on the other. If you con't wriggle every toe, the shoe is too small.

We beg of wou, gracious lady, for the sake of your health, disposition and the warding off of grounches and wrinkles, to be kind to your hoofs, dress them properly.

HIS AND HER LINENS PATTERN 2974

Everyone will know whose towel is whose if they're embroidered in these colorful His and Her motifs. And can't you see how smart they'll make your bathroom! Pattern 2974 contains a transfer pattern of 12 motifs averaging 3¾ x 5¾ inches; materials required; illustrations of stitches.

Send ten cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

Dress your youngsters alike—it's cute and it saves you money, too! One pattern, 9897 by Marian Martin, will make your little girl and boy these adorable twin suspender outfits you can stitch up in your spare time. The little girl wears a panelled skirt, the little boy, neat trousers. The straps button-on in front and are gaily embroidered from the transfer pattern that's included. Both blouses may have long or short sleeves: and are wash-and-wearable in white cotton broadcloth. . . . An extra blouse for each tot is a good idea: The rest of the ensemble might be of flannel or washable cotton gabardine.

Pattern 9897 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. Size 6, trousers, requires ¾ yard 54 inch fabric; skirt 1⅛ yards 54 inch fabric and blouse, 1 yard 35 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for this Marian Martin Pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Stephen Redfield greeted me a bit flamboyantly, and drew forward the most comfortable chair in the small living room of the suite where Philip Veritzen, in Mary's parlance, had "kenneled" him for the night. He had put on an impeccable street suit, and I guessed that the elder Veritzen's thoughtfulness had provided the actor with his clothing from his own rooms.

"I mustn't sit down," I told him hurriedly. "Have you breakfasted?"

"Not yet," he said. "I was waiting until you came, and hoping you'd have something with me."

"I have a much better plan," I told him. "I really don't know why I said I was being disturbed in my apartment. I did expect some people, but they're not coming, and there's probably not a soul will look me up for an hour or more. So I am asking you to come down and breakfast with me in my apartment. It is larger than this, and far more comfortable. The hotel was nearly full last night. Anyone who unexpectedly stayed the night was out of luck."

"I'll echo that," he said, looking around the room with distaste. "This is a kennel."

"I can imagine your discomfort. All the more reason why you should get out of it," I said.

"I shall be very glad to come down to your suite," he said. "But," he hesitated. "Could you possibly tell me first what you have remembered about the question I asked you last night."

"Not here," I said with decision. "Over the coffee cups, I shall be very glad to tell you what I have remembered, although I am afraid it won't be of much use to you. When will you be ready to leave here?"

"I am ready now," he said, and escorting me to the door, he opened it and led me through with such empressment that I felt as if I were in a costume drama.

He kept up his impressive courtesy all the way through the corridors and elevator to my door. But when he had entered, I motioned him rather peremptorily to a chair.

Puts Redfield at Ease.

"Please do not remain standing for me," I said. "Indeed you make me nervous standing up."

He stood by his chair irresolutely until I extended a mandatory forefinger toward him.

"Will you please sit down?" I asked, and my voice, while I strove to keep it pleasant, held something more than a request.

He obeyed the forefinger abruptly, and I went to the telephone, turning and smiling in comradely fashion at him before I took down the receiver.

"Now for your breakfast order," I said, "and remember, I am not a matinee girl expecting you to live on ambrosia and nightingales' tongues. So if you'll give me the kind of breakfast order I'm sure you like—the kind my husband likes, I have no doubt—I'll order it up at once."

Orders His Breakfast.

"You are very kind," he said. "I'd like chilled melon first, then a slice of ham and eggs—turned over—with French fried potatoes, and sliced tomatoes on the side; coffee, of course, plenty of it, and hot rolls with honey."

"If I hadn't breakfasted so bountifully, that recital would make me hungry," I said. "As it is, I'll order two pots of coffee and a double order of hot rolls. They make delicious ones here."

"Yes, I know, I've eaten them," he said. Then I took down the receiver and gave room service the order. When I had hung up again, he leaned forward in his chair and put a tense question.

"Mrs. Graham," he said, "have you seen Mary — or Noel — this morning?"

Are Animals Better Parents Than Humans?

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Are parents human beings? The other day I had a talk on this subject before a large men's club. Perhaps you could have made a better speech. I did the best I could. Here are my notes:

Are parents human beings? Yes; that's the trouble. Monkey mothers and deer dads, also parents of other animals we consider inferior, don't seem to have the frailties we are familiar with in human parents.

Their children hardly know when they have a headache or morning grouch. They don't come home tired and irritable from the golf links or club or bridge party, or have to hurry to a prize fight or prayer meeting. Animal parents do not nag: they do not hound their children off to bed nor build up an inferno around their meals or music lessons. If Dante were to write again today he would have a dinner scene, with both parents playing the devil's part.

Faults Animals Avoid.

Animal parents do not ridicule their children or laugh at their mistakes. They always try to keep them infantile. They don't get more angry at their own children than their neighbors'. They don't tug at the heartstrings of their children, nor weep over them and teach them to enjoy their parental griefs and worries. They don't annoy their children with their "oughts" and "don'ts" and "should have known betters," nor hold them up to standards of conduct above their own.

Animal children are not expected to be more courteous and honest than their parents, not to eat spinach when their daddies don't. The parents among lower animals are pretty consistent, since they obey a few inner urges which are highly continuous and have habits which are very constant.

Failings of Human Parents.

We human parents continuously annoy our children by our inconsistencies. We forever wabble, and our children know it.

Animal parents don't have family pride that makes them scold and punish their children because some friend or neighbor thinks they should; that arouse personality fears in the young because of anxiousness about shaking hands and saying how do you do.

As human beings we are supposed to reason and, by it, to be guided in the rearing of our children. But rarely do we reason, seldom do we look ahead.

Boy Friend Is Bashful

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The young man I'm going with is terribly self-conscious, and is miserable over it. He has had a high school education and couldn't afford to go to college because his pay envelope is needed at home. Although he meets people at his work, he still doesn't seem to be able to overcome his timidity around my folks when he comes over.

Please advise me what I could suggest to help him overcome this bashfulness?

Priscilla.

Timid people have been known to overcome extreme self-consciousness by joining a debating society, or a dramatic club. Elocution also helps: so does time, my dear. In the city from which you write, there is an excellent settlement. You might tell your young man to consult the physical director and find out what he could take up to help him in the line of exercise. He might join a gym class.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a young man of 25 years and since I've been taken in the draft I see my girl friend only every month or so; the rest of the time we correspond. She is 22 years old. She tells me sometimes that she goes out with other boys; often I hear it from another source, which distresses me terribly. I care for her more than I've ever told her.

How can I find out whether she is really in love with me or cares more for the other fellows' company?

Draftee.

It often puzzles me, when I get a letter like yours, why the simple experiment of asking a girl does not occur to you boys who stew and fuss and then keep on in an agony of doubt.

You know that this girl goes out with other young men. If you were to tell her how much you care for her, more than likely she wouldn't accept so many of these invitations which worry you so much.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going with a girl whose mother wants to pick out her daughter's friends. Certain boys are friends of the family and the girl's mother says she can't go out with me if she doesn't go with these other boys also. We're all neighbors, and I've invited the girl to my house, but her mother won't allow her to visit my home. That makes my mother feel hurt.

I don't have any bad habits—don't drink or smoke, and always try to act as a gentleman should. I've never even tried to kiss this girl, so I can't imagine what's the matter with me.

The only chance I have to see this girl is by making dates to meet her at other girls' homes. If we can't meet any other way, we intend to keep on like this. How can I get into the good graces of this girl's family? It seems ridiculous to me that I have to win over the parents first.

Alec.

I'm sorry you didn't tell me how old this young lady is. If she's still in school, her parents may feel that she's too young to receive the attention of a boy who's in love with her. The best way to make an impression on a young lady's parents is to show them that you lead a clean life, are doing well in school or at your work, and that you are ambitious.

My advice would be that you try to be patient for a while longer.

A Frenchman, Leon Scott, made an unsuccessful attempt to record sound in 1855, 22 years before Thomas Edison's experiments succeeded.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKE HIM COME TO YOU

IF YOU hold a tenace position in trumps over your right-hand opponent, but have no trump in the dummy to lead through him, there are still several possible ways available to take advantage of the position of your cards. One may be by playing the hand down to the point where you lead from the dummy something which he has to trump before you do. Another is by tossing his partner into the lead and making him lead either a trump or something else which both you and his partner have to trump. A third is by putting the holder of the guarded trump in the lead himself, and making him come to you with a trump lead at the end.

With East keeping his mouth shut until the moment of his business double, it was clear to South — Sidney Silodor, great Philadelphia star—that he was endowed chiefly with plenty of spades, possibly all of them that were out. So he played accordingly.

Winning the heart K, West then made dummy trump the Q, and the declarer bent to his task, aiming to shorten his trumps. The diamond A was used for a discard of the last heart in his own hand, and a small diamond was ruffed. Dummy was re-entered with the spade K and the third diamond led, East ruffing with the 5 and the 7 winning, which left three trumps each with both the declarer and his adversary.

The two high clubs were scored, the third send to East, and the latter returned the fourth, making South lead again. That didn't bother him, though, as he had lost only two tricks and could afford to lose another. He led the spade 8 to the 10, and there was East having to lead from the Q-6 into the A-J, which of course took the last two tricks, making the contract.

If you get into 6-Clubs or 6-No Trumps in the south on this deal, and the heart J is led against you, how would you plan your play in rubber bridge, and how in match-point duplicate?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 31.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

Prospects for the fulfilment of high ideals, ideas and practical objectives are sustained by this day's intriguing and unusual stellar aspects. This fine opportunity may arise from a sudden, quite unpredictable and surprising source, which may involve unlooked-for change of plans, or even associations and environs, bringing a quick shift to altogether new aims and accomplishments. Stranger forces and personages are at work, with elders as well as old establishments contributing.

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of definite advance upon their cherished ambitions and lofty ideas and ideals, with their expansion and growth receiving sudden impetus from strange and surprising sources. Not only unforeseen and thrilling aid is seen but dependable old attachments, friends or institutions figure in fair and enduring fortunes. The public or groups may also be ready with recognition of sound as well as brilliant new enterprise. There should be growth of values in investments.

A child born on this day should have much brilliant ability as well as sterling worth, which should insure performance or adventure.

Main Dish Of Oyster Chowder

By BETSY NEWMAN

CHOWDER, a salad and a dessert make a simple meal for mother or the cook to prepare, and very tasty, too, if you ask me. It keeps costs down, too, an added inducement to serve this type of meal once in a while.

Today's Menu.

Oyster Chowder
Hot Buttered Toast or Crisp Crackers
Chef's Salad Doughnuts
Coffee

Oyster Chowder.

1½ pints small oysters
1 quart potatoes
⅔ cup celery
3 tablespoons onion
2½ teaspoons salt
1 cup water
½ teaspoon pepper
3 Tbsps. butter
1 cup canned milk
3 cups water

Fry the finely minced onion in the butter, add 1 cup water, diced celery, diced potatoes, cover and cook until nearly done; add salt and pepper. When vegetables are tender, add milk and let come to boil. Remove from fire. Add water to oysters and heat, removing any scum. When oyster edges curl, combine with milk and vegetables. Let stand a few minutes for flavor to blend, and serve hot.

Chef's Salad.

Combine as many fresh vegetables as you like, can get, or have on hand, dice or shred, and toss lightly together with French dressing.

Doughnuts.

3 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons shortening
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg or cinnamon
⅔ cup sugar
2 eggs
About 1 cup milk

Soft together flour, salt, baking powder and spice: add sugar and mix to a soft dough with eggs, milk, and melted shortening. Roll, cut out, fry in deep fat, drain, and when cool, drop into paper bag in which you have poured sifted powdered sugar, shake well, and serve.

THEATERS

High Comedy.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner," the sparkling comedy built around a celebrated lecturer's enforced stay in a mid-western Ohio household, brings a galaxy of stars to the Ohio screen Saturday. Monty Woolley, New York actor who appeared in the original stage version, plays the title role on the screen while Bette Davis and Ann Sheridan are the glamor girls in the supporting cast Miss Davis plays Woolley's knowing secretary and Miss Sheridan has the part of a Broadway actress. The cast includes Billie Burke and Grant Mitchell as the hosts of Woolley, Reginald Gardiner as a British playwright and Jimmy Durante as a screwball Hollywoodite.

Shirley Returns.

Shirley Temple returns to the screen after a two years' absence to play the title role in "Kathleen," opening Saturday at the Madison. Shirley plays the role of a disarming juvenile, the daughter of a wealthy man who is too enamored with a scheming woman to have time for his child. Herbert Marshall. Gail Patrick and Laraine Day top the supporting cast with the latter in the role of a psychologist who brings about an understanding between father and daughter. "Tarzan's Secret Treasure," with Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan is the second attraction.

Fields Comedy.

"Never Give a Sucker An Even Break," the W. C. Fields comedy, is the current attraction at the Ritz. Tex Ritter in "The Pioneers," a western filled with action, is the co-feature.

Pioneer Drama.

The discovery of gold in the Black Hills of Dakota, the founding of Deadwood and the shooting of Wild Bill Hickok provide the action in "Badlands of Dakota," opening Saturday at the Park. Bob Stack and Ann Rutherford are teamed for the romantic interludes and the cast includes Richard Dix. Frances Farmer. Broderick Crawford and Andy Devine. "Pardon My Stripes," farcial story of life behind the bars, is the second feature with Sheila Ryan and Edgar Kennedy.

Cadet Film.

"Cadets On Parade," the story of young America at military school, opens Saturday at the Majestic. Freddie Bartholomew and Jimmy Lydon appear as boys from cross sections of life who are faced with the problem of educating each other. Bartholomew plays the son of wealthy parents, and Lydon, the son of a crook. Raymond Hattan and Minna Gombell are in the cast. "The Kid From Kansas," is the second attraction. Tonight's features include "Treat 'Em Rough," with Eddie Albert and "The Lone Rider and the Bandit," with George Houston.

'Marco Polo' Stage Show Scene

Cecile Sherman as Aijurac and Don Keefer as Marco Polo are shown here in a scene from "The Adventures of Marco Polo," latest offering of Junior Programs, Inc., which will be given in Mansfield Feb. 9 under sponsorship of the Parent Teachers council.

* * * * *

PARENT-TEACHER COUNCIL TO PRESENT 'MARCO POLO' FEB. 9

Representing the first effort to present a stage production for children combining the musical arts of opera, ballet, and drama, "The Adventures of Marco Polo" will be given in Mansfield Monday, Feb. 9, under sponsorship of the Mansfield Parent-Teachers Council.

This play with music and dance is the latest offering of Junior Programs, Inc., national non-commercial organization which during the past five years has given stage productions witnessed by audiences totalling more than 3,000,000 persons in all parts of the country.

The leading man, Barry Mehool, is well-known to radio listeners for his parts in a number of dramatic programs on the air, and on Broadway he has appeared with Katherine Cornell, Judith Anderson and many other stars.

Cecil Sherman, singing star of the production, formerly was prima donna with the American Opera company, and has sung many concerts with the Rochester and Cincinnati Symphony Orchestras and on radio programs.

Natalie MacDonald, protege of Ruth St. Denis, and recognized as one of the leading younger ballerinas in the country, devised the dances for "Marco Polo." Dale Lefler and Charles Tate are among the ballet dancers in the production.

Children in Mansfield schools now are being "educated" for the production. Art teachers are using posters on Marco Polo, and music classes are hearing recordings from the presentation. It will be performed twice in Mansfield, at Johnny Appleseed junior high school at 9:30 a. m., and at John Simpson junior high school at 2:30 p. m.

GEN. JOHNSON: Orders Enemy Aliens From West Coast

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—There has been so much comment, criticism and discussion about the lack of proper overhead organization and failure to fix single and individual responsibility at the top of practically all the major departments of defense, that an even greater fault of the same kind in local organization has been largely overlooked.

Gen. Johnson.

This nation can't operate as a unit, as it must do, to undertake the stupendous task ahead, unless it is organized as a unit.

Whether it be the Office of Civilian Defense, or the selective service, or mobilizing all facilities of production to act as one machine, or to ration automobiles, tires and rubber, or to control the price structure—especially retail prices—there must be a decentralized organization with some kind of a unit of control in every community in the nation.

So far as the regimentation of agriculture is concerned, an excellent organization already exists in AAA and the department of agriculture.

The greatest shortcoming of SPAB was that it did not at once set up such "industry" committees as were used in World war I to bring every factory in each producing group into easy access and control by the Knudsen-Hillman czars. Apparently Donald Nelson understands this thoroughly and it now moving rapidly to complete this necessary spade work.

In addition he will have the advantage in army production of the district offices set up in the ordnance department. There is one of these for each great territorial producing area. Attached to it are able men who know the situation in their districts They can guide both the placing and the follow-up of these great orders and cut reels of red tape. They are doing this already.

I have just talked to a great expert in this work who has just visited several of them and he is pleased, not to say enthusiastic, with what he saw.

The decentralized pattern for selective service followed the successful model of 1917 and 1918 and there is little to worry about there.

The "industry committees," if promptly and properly organized, will greatly aid and speed production for the maritime commission and lease-lend.

As well as can be gauged at this early date in Nelson's administration, he is moving along right and proved lines and if critics are not too impatient, they will find reason to applaud the result as the great American machine for production actually settles down to the stupendous job assigned to it.

Of one great element—perhaps the most important one—very little of what has been said applies Leon Henderson deserves our prayers. His job is to ration our scant supplies and to keep the price structure from rising through the skies—particularly retail prices.

The job is his. The tools with which to do it are not. He has no control over wages and, since rising farm prices are tied to rising wage rates under the new price control bill, that means that he has no adequate control of the whole price structure.

Furthermore, if his job of controlling retail prices in every one of the tens of millions of our daily transactions means what it says, it is wholly impossible. It would require a veritable army in a decentralized organization to police it. Price control can be applied only to the great nationally organized segments of our commerce.

Henderson ought to know that, because it is the rock on which NRA split. As long as the codes were confined to them, they worked. When they were extended to include barber-shops, cleaners and dyers, chicken-butchers and the like they exploded.

In its most important aspect (statutory authority and a vast organization to do the job) our economic mechanism for defense is wholly lacking.

WICKARD SPEECH PROVOKES IRE OF 'FARM BLOC'

Senators Charge Secretary Violates Price-Control With Parity Stand.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Charging that Secretary of Agriculture Wickard is violating the spirit of the price control bill, senate leaders met today to demand a showdown on government policy in carrying out provisions of the far reaching regulatory measure.

Sen. Thomas (D.), Okla., a senate "farm bloc" leader, charged Wickard's declaration in a speech at Atlanta, Ga., that he would try to maintain prices at parity, and his efforts to keep corn and feed prices at 85 per cent of parity, is in direct contradiction of the price control measure approved this week by congress

The attitude of the "farm bloc" leaders, who won a bitter fight to give Wickard veto power over fixing of agriculture prices by Administrator Leon Henderson, consequently turned to one of wrath.

The senate agriculture committee was called into special session by Sen. Smith (D), S. C, chairman, as angry protests were made that Wickard "broke" the commodity markets through his action in trying to keep corn and feed prices at 85 per cent of parity. The price control measure, now awaiting President Roosevelt's signature to become effective, fixed farm prices at no lower than 110 per cent of parity.

"We want a showdown immediately," said Thomas. "We want to know whether the law, which provided that prices should not be fixed below 110 per cent of parity or the 1919-1929 average price level, is going to apply or whether somebody's idea will govern.

"The farmers in my state stand only for fair prices, but we can't live and pay our taxes on 85 per cent of parity under the present economy when there are no restrictions placed on wages."

Sen. Bankhead (D.), Ala., who led the fight to give Wickard veto power over farm price fixing, said that Wickard had endorsed the 110 per cent parity "floor" in the price control bill.

"Of course it was understood, when the 110 per cent of parity figure was used, that an effort would be made to maintain prices at least at parity, and that there might be fluctuations under and above," said Bankhead.

"It seems incredible that Wickard would do anything to hold prices at 85 per cent of parity."

Members of the Richland county blind school which convenes every Thursday at the Salvation Army will experience another thrill through their recreation program next week. Adjt. Paul Hoffman is making arrangements with the Coliseum for the loan of roller skates, so that the blind may enjoy this form of recreation throughout the coming months. Each person will have an individual guide, according to the officer who is asking a number of young men and women of the organization to assist with the project.

Getting special shoes for crippled children in the Mansfield area has been a hard task for several years but W. F. Norton, proprietor of the Norton Shoe Repair shop on West Third street, is doing something about. Norton is in West Palm Beach, Fla., where he is taking a two-months' course in making special shoes for these children. Mrs Norton, accompanied her husband on the trip but returned home after a few weeks' vacation Norton is taking instruction from Edward Venor, shoe craftsman, who made shoes for the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

Although Christmas is a good 11 months away, Mansfield's postoffice is almost as crowded with people now as it is during the holiday season. In addition to the usual postal business conducted there, postal clerks are selling auto-use-tax stamps, defense bonds and stamps; painters are plying their brushes in the lobby and halls; internal revenue men are helping hundreds of Mansfielders file their income tax returns; and two recruiting stations are examining and accepting men for the armed forces.

BIDDLE ACTS AFTER DIES WARNS HOUSE

186,000 Axis Nationals To Be Removed as Threat of 'New Pearl Harbor.'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The justice department, in a move to prevent espionage and fifth column activity similar to that preceding Pearl Harbor, today set in motion a plan to remove the 186,000 enemy aliens residing in eight far western states.

Attorney General Francis Biddle has ordered Japanese, German and Italian aliens out of two areas in San Francisco and Los Angeles by Feb. 24.

Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., of the house committee on un-American activities, who in a house speech two days ago predicted a "tragedy on the west coast that will make Pearl Harbor sink into insignificance," endorsed the justice department's action.

The Dies committee, it was learned, plans to report to the house shortly that it turned over to the state and justice departments and the armed forces last fall "impressive" evidence that Japan was preparing for a lightning attack on Pearl Harbor. The committee was said to have obtained the evidence from a former Japanese consular agent who had been stationed in Hawaii.

The Dies committee report will warn—unless it is changed in view of the justice department's action—that conditions exist on the west coast for "another Pearl Harbor" at San Francisco or Los Angeles. The committee had planned to urge that immediate steps be taken to remove enemy aliens from the west coast.

On the basis of the 1940 alien registration the aliens resident in the eight western states affected—California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Utah, Nevada and Arizona — represent one-tenth of the Japanese, German and Italian aliens living in the United States.

The greatest number reside in California where 52,000 Italians, 38,787 Japanese and 19,417 Germans were registered. Washington ranked next with 5,958 Japanese, 3,911 Italians and 2,937 Germans.

Biddle said the aliens would have to shift for themselves in most cases where they were removed, but that where extreme hardships were involved governmental agencies probably would give some assistance.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Stars and Stripes.

A FASCINATING fragment of current Broadway phenomena is the progress of the strip-tease from an art form that only Commissioner Moss and the shirt-sleeved classes knew about to a semi-conventional and almost inescapable form of entertainment.

Kilgallen

The strip has become something of a national institution, and even the legitimate theater has been having fun with it. Remember Jean Castro's "Zip" in "Pal Joey"? That was the ice breaker. And at the moment there's Sophie Tucker's comic version in "High Kickers" and Rosemary Lane's involuntary strip in "Best Foot Forward."

Significant in the study of the trend is the fact that the largest single theater marquee billing on Broadway does not belong to an actor, an actress, a singer a comedian, or a bandleader. It belongs to a strip teaser, the leading figure (sic!) in burlesque. You can see it every now and then in 30-inch letters outside the Gaiety theater, Margie Hart.

Margie Hart stands far out in front of a field currently embracing about a hundred strippers whose weekly take from the "take off" starts as low as $45. The redheaded "Kid from Missouri", who's been showing 'em for nine years now, earned a $1,500 paycheck New Year's week at the Gaiety—a new high for anyone in her profession.

She is said by some Broadway mathematicians to have earned more in 1941 than Hedy Lamarr and Rita Hayworth combined. She makes more than three times the salary of her nearest competitors, who are in the $250-a-week class.

Even Gipsy Rose Lee in her burlesque days was never in such big money, never made coin to compare with the Hart-earned cash of the current title holder.

There are varying versions of the start of the strip Some contend it's as old as the human race itself. Some say Little Egypt inspired the art of peeling Others maintain the whole trend started quite by accident when a burlesque chorine's shoulder-strap broke and it got such a round of applause she broke it the next night on purpose. And so on.

Or if you prefer, so off. The strip tease in its present revealing form seems to have begun right after the first World war at the old Winter Garden theater a Billy Minsky house on Houston street, 'way downtown in Manhattan.

To offset the rough quality of the bulk of his audience, Minsky flooded the Park ave. and Broadway districts with passes, and in those days it was considered quite a lark to go down to the Winter Garden and yell, "Take it off!"

Today, the strip tease may be viewed at betwen 30 and 35 burlesque houses throughout the country The Gaiety alone attracts more than 20,000 customers a week. Manager Herk (a University of Michigan grad who once produced "Elmer Gantry" in association with William A. Brady) declares that more women are becoming burlesque fans. The audiences are now approximately 20 per cent female, he says.

One of the things you probably do not know and would never guess is that there are Margie Hart Fan clubs, just as there are Ginger Rogers fan clubs, and that some of them are entirely made up of ladies.

FREE ON BOND

Ashland Man, Wife Held Guilty In Arson Case.

Pending a hearing for a new trial, Charles B. Gierhart, 48, and Mrs. Cornelia Williams, 54, of Ashland, were free today on $1,000 bond each following their conviction in Fremont yesterday on a charge of arson.

A Sandusky jury convicted them in connection with the burning of a combination cafe-service station last August at Hessville, five miles west of Fremont.

Authorities said investigation by a state fire marshal and a special investigator for the National Board of Fire Underwriters revealed oil soaked rags had been found between the partitions. The property had been insured for $1,000 by Gierhart a month before the fire, they said.

Gierhart and Mrs. Williams were arrested at Ashland where they moved shortly after the fire. The convictions, if upheld, carry sentences of three to 15 years.

RITES SATURDAY

Reid Tuttle, 41, To Be Buried In New Haven Cemetery.

PLYMOUTH — Funeral services for Reid Tuttle, 41, who died in Shelby Memorial hospital Wednesday following a short illness, will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the McQuate funeral home in Shiloh.

Rev. M. Stover, pastor of the Shiloh Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be in New Haven cemetery.

Surviving are his father, Merritt, of Plymouth; a brother, Gaylord of Shelby, and a sister, Mrs. Paul Zipple of Toledo.

ATTORNEY ASKS $94,600 IN FEES

Rust Filed 3rd Suit Against Plants Claiming Overtime Pay's Due Employes.

Filing the third suit of its kind in the past six months, Attorney H. M. Rust today boosted to $94,600 the total of counsel fees he is asking in actions on behalf of workers in Richland county industries for overtime pay they claim is due them.

The Richland Shale Brick company had been named defendant today in a suit to collect $153,071 for 34 employes. The request includes $51,000 in attorney fees for Rust, leaving $102,071 for the 34 workers should the entire amount be collected.

In two other similar actions filed last August Rust asked $40,000 and $3,600 in attorney fees. All the suits were filed in common pleas court under the Fair Labor Standards act.

One of the previous actions sought a total of $220,853 from the Ohio Shale Face Brick company and the other asked for $16,768 from the Mansfield Shale Products company.

Neither of the two previous suits has been heard in common pleas court. The Ohio Shale Face Brick company filed an answer stating that service was made on the wrong official. In the other case a demurrer was filed to a request that the defendant be required to answer a questionnaire attached to the petition. The answers would show the number of hours worked by employes and the amount of pay they received.

GEORGE M. GERNHARDT, PIONEER IN SOFT-DRINK INDUSTRY, DIES

George M. Gernhardt, 72, nationally-known pioneer in the soft-drink industry, died at his home, 579 Sloane avenue, Thursday at 11 p. m. after a brief illness.

Mr. Gernhardt introduced Coca-Cola in the northern section of the United States when he founded the Cleveland Coca-Cola Bottling company in the city of his birth many years ago.

He was responsible for the development of the Coca-Cola business throughout this section of the country and his position as senior member on the board of directors of the Coca-Cola Bottling company of New York was indicative of the power he wielded in the industry.

Resident of Mansfield for the past 15 years, Mr. Gernhardt came here about six years after his retirement from business in Cleveland.

He found the Mansfield Coca-Cola Bottling company with his son, George P. Gernhardt, 28 years ago, and the younger Mr. Gernhardt was president and manager of the company until the time of his death last May. When his son died Mr. Gernhardt assumed active direction of the company.

Prior to the time he founded the Cleveland Cocoa-Cola Bottling company, Mr. Gernhardt had been operator and president of other soft-drink bottling companies.

He made frequent trips to New York on company business, and was fond of telling associates and friends that he transacted business there almost without seeing the sun shine on the city. He would tell of boarding a train here in the evening, arriving in New York in the morning, taking a subway train from the Pennsylvania station to the Cocoa-Cola office building, which had a station in the basement, and going straight to the office without being outdoors. His business completed, he would follow the same path back to the station and board a train for Mansfield.

He held membership in a number of fraternal organizations.

Mr. Gernhardt was born in Cleveland, Nov. 15, 1869. He married Miss Elizabeth K. Schaeffer of that city and the couple quietly celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Christmas eve of last year.

Mrs. Gernhardt survives with one daughter, Miss Florence Gernhardt, at home. Two grandchildren Marilyn and George, children of Mrs. George P Gernhardt, also survive as does a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Himmel, Cleveland

Mr. Gernhardt's body is at the Finefrock funeral home where funeral services will be conducted at 1:30 p m. Monday by Carl Cromer, Lexington, former reader at the First Church of Christ Scientist. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

GIRL LOCATED

Missing Madison Pupil Wires Boy Friend From Indiana.

Missing since last Friday, Jackie Winters, 15-year-old Madison high school pupil, was located today in Ft. Wayne, Ind., when she sent a telegram to a boy friend here to tell him she had a job and was all right.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn C. Humphrey said the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Winters, Sixth avenue, plan to go after the girl as soon as Ft. Wayne authorities find her address in the city and report to Sheriff Frank E. Robinson.

The girl failed to report at school last Friday and left no word where she was going. She was seen the same day in the bus station here where she told a Mansfield woman she had been having trouble at home and decided to go away and find a job.

DIES AT AGE 88

Mrs. Mary Reed Dies at Home of Daughter; Rites Monday.

Mrs. Mary M. Reed, 88, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Hess, 112 East Third street, after an illness of four weeks.

Born Sept. 12, 1865, in Holmesville, she spent the greater part of her life in Lexington where she was a member of the Church of Christ.

Surviving besides her daughter are two sons, William and Homer; two daughters, Mrs. Leona Riemer and Mrs. Ella Messimer; one sister, Mrs. Calvin Longshore; one brother, William Buzzard; all of Mansfield; 11 grandchildren; 14 great grandchildren; and one great-great grandchild.

The body is at the Hess home to remain until time for services Monday at 1 p. m. at the Church of Christ in Lexington in charge of Rev. John Mellick. Burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

BUCYRUS DOCTOR 31 YEARS DIES

Dr. Charles H. King Succumbs After Being Ill Two Weeks.

BUCYRUS—A physician here for the past 31 years, Dr. Charles H. Kingf, died at his home Thursday. He had been ill for the past two weeks.

Born in Washington, Pa., he came to Bucyrus in 1910. He attended State Teachers' college in California, Pa., later teaching school. He received his degree in medicine from Ohio State university in 1906

Only surviver is his widow, Clara.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Wise funeral home. Rev. C. D. Loehr, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which he was a member will officiate. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

Father Will Take Highest Honor for Courage of Son

LAKE WORTH, Fla. —(AP)— A father today awaited presentation of America's highest war award for his only son killed in battle—"Sandy," the boy who "never quit anything he started."

The war's first congressional medal of honor was posthumously awarded yesterday to Second Lieutenant Alexander Ramsey Nininger, jr., "for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty" in the Philippines.

"It was just like him," the father said of his 23-year-old son. "He had tremendous determination. He decided when he was about 11 he wanted to go to West Point. From then on nothing could stop him."

The award actually will go to the young man's father, A. R. Nininger, sr., a theater manager here.

Nininger, took a rifle and some hand gernades and attacked Japanese snipers and groups in "fox holes" who had penetrated American lines and stalled a counter-attack. That was on Jan. 12 at Abucay on Batan peninsula along the shores of Manila bay. He was found by his companions later. Beside his body were the bodies of an enemy officer and two Japanese soldiers.

ENDS LIFE WITH AX

LOGAN—(AP)—Police Chief Lew Reynolds said that Vance Webb, 63, a widely known oil and coal operator, beat himself to death with a small ax yesterday.

PLAYERS HOLD ORGANIZATION MEET RECENTLY

James Nichols Named Head of Galion Community Group.

GALION — Organization of a new dramatic club, to be known as The Galion Community Players, was held at a meeting Thursday night.

James Nichols was elected president. He will serve with the following officers: vice president, Patricia Pollock; secretary-treasurer, Don Richardson; publicity, Sam Manning.

It was decided to keep the club open to any person in the city interested in dramatics, the presentation of plays and the study of modern drama. Both high school students and graduates are invited to join the club. Meetings will be held every two weeks on Monday night.

A meeting is planned for next Monday night in Room 309 at Senior high school, and another meeting will be held on the following Monday night. At the next meeting, several short plays will be read to give members a chance to show histrionic ability.

At the next session it was also planned to select a regular meeting place. A committee also will be appointed to draw up a constitution for the club.

This is the first organization of its kind to be started since the Drama Workshop Players disbanded two years ago after operating successfully for more than 10 years.

LUCAS PASTOR, WIFE HONORED

Reception Held For Rev. and Mrs. Goerner at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

LUCAS—A reception in honor of Rev. and Mrs. O. S. Goerner featured the annual congregational meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran church, which was attended by about 75 members and friends of the church here Thursday evening.

Following a pot-luck supper the reception program included addresses by Rev. H. L. Gilbert of Mansfield and R. N. McMichael of Lucas, and a vocal solo by Don Parfitt.

Rev. Goerner, recently called as pastor of the Lucas parish, responded with a brief address. John Rebman presided over the reception program.

During the business meeting of the congregation Ray Muth was named a member of the board of trustees. Dale D. Peterson was elected elder and Don Parfitt deacon.

Reports from officers and all organizations of the church, presented during the session, indicated a substantial gain in membership during the past year.

Newly elected officers will be formally installed next Sunday morning, it was announced.

Earlier in the evening Rev. and Mrs. Goerner were presented with a shower of canned goods and groceries given by families of the church.

SHELBY TRAIN WRECK LAID TO BROKEN AXLE

Four Coaches Derailed, 200 Feet of Trackage Torn Up.

SHELBY—Traffic today was resumed on the New York Central railroad through here after it had been halted late Thursday when four cars of a fast passenger train were derailed at Shelby Junction.

Several hundred persons escaped injury when the express car next to the coal tender broke an axle derailing it and three other express cars, road officials said.

Six cars remained on the tracks, the air brakes automatically setting as the accident occurred. The derailed cars tore up about 200 feet of track.

The express car stretched across the right-of-way stopping traffic over the road until the tracks were cleared.

Wrecking crews were called to the scene from Crestline and worked most of the night to clear the tracks.

Hundreds of persons visited the scene. The rear part of the train extended across North Broadway, halting motor traffic on that street for several hours.

The train was not scheduled to stop in Shelby.

Don't hold your breath waiting on it, but there's a new all-time Mansfield high school basketball scoring record in the making, and it may be chalked up tonight at Bellevue, and almost certainly by the end of next Saturday night's game with Mt. Vernon at Senior high gym..

Two seasons ago, so I'm informed, Gene Miller set the record at 176 points. Bob Winbigler, going into tonight's game at Bellevue, has 159 points already in the hoop, and if he really turns his hand to a bit of marksmanship he should be able to rack up the 18 points necessary for a new record against Bellevue.

Windy came within one point of tying Miller's mark last season when he closed the campaign with 175 points. And big Bob wasn't a regular starter in the first six games of the 1940-41 season.

With seven games remaining on the schedule, in addition to tournament games, Winbigler could easily raise the record to around 250 points this winter.

And Paul Dietzel, who now has 11 points, can pass the Miller mark.

Incidentally, Winbigler and Dietzel, who recently spent a week-end at Ohio State, were interviewed this week by an emissary from Tennessee. And have an invitation to visit the Tennessee campus in the spring.

And what's happened to Gene Miller, the lad who set the present scoring record at the high school?

Gene is doing very well, thank you, up at Toledo U. Right now he's ranked as No. 1 man on the Rocket cage squad, and serves as co-captain of the "Toledo "B" team with Bill McClain, another one of Vern Hoffman's boys, from Bellevue. The "B" team plays the preliminary tilts on the numerous double-headers on the Toledo schedule. In one such game recently, Gene tallied 14 points.

On his last trip here to officeree a high school game, Coach Harold Anderson of Toledo said Miller was just beginning to regain the shooting eye which made him a high school whiz.

Down at Wittenberg, right now, they're singing the praises of former Loudonville Red Bird, Bill "Sugar" Cain.

In fact the Wittenbergers are prepared to tell the government: Ration that sweet stuff all you want to, but we'll raise cane if you cut down on our Sugar."

And very happy are the Springfield Lutherans that Loudonville used Cain for them.

Since he was given a chance to break into the Wittenberg basketball lineup as a sophomore, "Sweet Sugar" has dunked the globule for 68 points in six games.

* * *

Wittenbergers are waiting for the night when Cain will break the school's single-game scoring record of 26 points, set by Gerald "Red" Armstrong of Greenfield in 1926, and tied by Tom Rankin of Springfield in 1939.

Cain's successive point totals for his six games are: 8-12-9-14-22.

Pastor, Lesnevich Bout Set

Managers Make Up For Principals In Bout.

By JACK GUENTHER

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A group of the most refreshing celebrities to be encountered anywhere outside a wax museum will meet tonight in a ceremony which is ballyhooed as a heavyweight elimination bout but which more closely resembles a little something dashed off by the Ringling brothers, the Rose Bowl committee and Orson Wells.

The principals involved are Bob Pastor and Gus Lesnevich, but the principles involved are obscure. As accurately as I can determine it, the thing is another of those "if" bouts. If Lesnevich wins he will be permitted to cure his insomnia by meeting Joe Louis a couple of months hence. If Pastor wins, he will be dispatched right back to his doghouse.

The encounter doesn't promise to be a brilliant one. Pastor has twice faced the champion and the best thing that may be said of his showings is that he survived to lie about them. Lesnevich is currently disguised as the world light-heavyweight champion, but he isn't fooling even himself. The fight, if there is to be one in more than name, centers on the managers.

Through the years Johnston has collected such nicknames as "Boy Bandit," "Iron Hat Jimmy," "Broadway Brigand" and "Larceny Pete," which are self explanatory. Diamond known as the "Honest Brakeman," was titled when he quit a railroad but left the track and roundhouse behind.

In the past 24 hours many things have brightened Lammers' Lane. Diamond began aping Johnston by buying a derby hat, and Johnston's hirelings stole the thing. Johnston sent three of his brothers and three of his sons to spy on Lesnevich at the Pioneer gym, and Diamond marched into court and demanded a restraining injunction—which he didn't get.

As a counter move the "Honest Brakeman" hied his 240 pounds to a telegraph office and wired a summons to "Evil Eye" Finkle to appear forthwith. Finkle will be stationed at a point of vantage from which he will spend his time applying the hex on Pastor's corner. Johnston replied that he personally will apply more than the hex if "Evil Eye" appears.

* * *

In one way, the mere fact that the bout was signed at all represents a signal triumph for the "Boy Bandit," who has clamored for years that Pastor hasn't been given a fair shake in New York. Johnston-already has tacked up a "Des Moines" railway sign in Pastor's dressing room, explaining that his boy fights on the road so much that when he reaches New York he gets lonely.

KELLY ACCLAIMED AS 'VALOROUS ATHLETE'

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—A West Point athlete who rode the skies to a hero's death in the battle of the Philippines—Capt. Colin P. Kelly, jr.—held posthumous honors today as "the most valourous athlete of the year."

* * *

He paid with his life over Luzon for the first telling American blow for democracy. And 1,000 persons roared their approval last night when he was honored at the Philadelphia Sports Writers' 38th annual dinner.

* * *

Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankee clipper who set a new all-time record by hitting safely in 56 consecutive games, was named the year's outstanding athlete.

Succeeds Zup

RAY ELIOT

The appointment of Ray Eliot (above) to succeed Bob Zuppke as head football coach at the University of Illinois climaxes Eliot's career in sports that began when he enrolled at Illinois as a freshman 14 years ago. He won varsity letters as a guard on Zuppke's '30 and '31 teams. He has been line coach at Illinois since 1937.

Illini Choose New Coach

Zup's Pupil, Ray Eliot, Assumes New Job Today.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(AP)—In vast Memorial stadium, built during the pre-Grange era of Bob Zuppke-coached Illini football teams, a Zuppke pupil named Ray Eliot will direct the University of Illinois gridders next fall

With spring football drills scheduled to begin shortly, Eliot today plunged into his new duties with the declaration:

* * *

"We will start right away. We have a great bunch of kids who love to play football, and it's going to be our job to mold them into a real team."

Six years old when Zuppke began his 29-season reign here in 1913, Eliot held the position of line coach when his appointment was announced yesterday

There was elation on the campus at the announcement, for it presumably meant the end of a four-year period of athletic wrangling. The 72-day coach hunt came to a conclusion when members of the athletic board agreed on Eliot.

* * *

The new coach went through school as Ray Nusspickel, adopting the name Eliot only a few years ago.

* * *

Eliot has been intensely popular with members of the football team. On several occasions players demanded bluntly that the athletic board elevate the line coach, who served at Illinois college for five years before he came here in September, 1937.

War Dents Buck Grid Club Little

Only Two Soph-Junior Boys Are Definitely Drafted.

By JAMES EMERSON

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Paul Brown revealed today that the war is likely to make only a small dent in prospects for his 1942 Ohio State football team.

Emphasizing that unforeseen developments may alter the situation drastically, the personable Buckeye gridiron coach said only two players of the sophomore-junior contingent from last year's squad are lost definitely because of the war and only three others are even registered for the draft. The other first and second year men of the 1941 squad were too young for the October, 1940, and July, 1941, registrations.

Even the next registration, on Feb. 16 for men 20 to 45 years old, will skip nine of last year's gridders so come what may Brown should be able to field a varsity eleven next fall.

Most important loss to the military forces are George Cheroke, sophomore guard from Shadyside, who filled in so capably when Sophomore Lin Houston was hurt in mid-season last fall.

Paul Sweeney, a third or fourth string halfback from Cleveland, has enlisted in the navy. The three boys on the registration rolls are John Placas, center; Joe Nowak, back, and John Rowe, center, all reserves last year.

Of these boys—none of them called yet, Brown indicated that Placas, a hard-hitting line backer, was the only one figuring very prominently in 1942 plans.

Neither Brown nor anyone else knows what the next eight months will bring but on the present outlook he is satisfied to take his chances against the rival schools on war inroads among his gridiron talent.

The Massillon "miracle man" revealed at a press conference yesterday that his knife-and-fork league speaking schedule will end March 2 and a week-and-a-half of indoor drills will open for his Buckeye gridders on the same date. Outdoor practice will start March 31 and conclude May 16 in the annual intra-squad spring game.

May 15 and 16 have been set as the dates for the annual Ohio State football clinic for Ohio high school coaches. Brown said he hopes for a turnout surpassing the 500 guests who attended last year's clinic. A track meet with Purdue is scheduled tentatively for Ohio stadium the same afternoon as the grid contest.

Other points on the Ohio State sports front reported the following developments:

Jack Graf will receive the Chicago Tribune award for being the Big Ten's most valuable football player in 1940 at the Ohio State-Indiana basketball game in the Coliseum Monday night. The game has been designated as Ohio's golden jubilee cage event in honor of James Naismith, father of the hardwood sport.

Both Mike Peppe of the swimming team and Larry Snyder of the track squad were more optimistic than usual about their 1942 prospects. Peppe said his current squad is the best since the one that captured the National A. A. U. title three years ago. The Bucks ran second to Michigan in their only meet to date but then, as Peppe said, who doesn't finish second to Michigan in a dual tank meet?

Snyder's trackmen open their season at Michigan State Saturday. Larry said his squad has good balance and "might show up high in the Big 10 indoor meet."

Coach Harold G. Olsen whose basketball squad meets a heavily-favored Purdue five here tomorrow night said "we still have hopes" and thinks his outfit "may beat any of the leaders" in their remaining schedule despite a 3-4 conference record to date.

Fight Results

OMAHA—Lem Franklin, 202, Cleveland, stopped Joe O'Gatly, 198, Enark, N. J. (2).

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Johnny Compo New Haven, 127, and Joe Lonnotti, 128½, New Haven, drew (8).

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Joey Haddad, 144 Paterson N. J., outpointed Mickey Makar, 146 Bayonne N. J. (8).

JOHNSVILLE WINS

JOHNSVILLE — Johnsville high cagers, paced by Dick Snavely's 20 points, defeated Edison last night 46-22. Johnsville reserves won the prelim 19-13 as T. Snavely marked up eight points for top honors.

Fired and Hired

RALPH (PEST) WELCH

When Jimmy Phelan was fired as head football coach at the University of Washington last December, Ralph (Pest) Welch, above, assistant to Phelan, also was fired. Now Welch, former Purdue All-American, has been hired back—as head coach, succeeding Phelan. Welch, 35, played fullback when at Purdue.

Plymouth Set For Madison

Three Other Games Ready In County Cage Loop.

With Plymouth matched against Madison in the top game, Richland county cage loop play will resume tonight.

Other games slated match the fourth place Lucas club with eighth place Bellville, on the Blue Jay floor, the last place Shiloh team against the seventh place Ontario Warriors and Union at Lexington.

* * *

Union is in sixth place while Lexington is in a fourth place tie.

* * *

If Plymouth can trip Madison out on Ram Hill, it will keep its slate clean and the team in a position to play Butler on even terms for the loop lead.

* * *

If Madison wins, it will leave them in a position to tie first place up should Butler be beaten.

Gun Club Offers Defense Bond Shoot

Top prize for the Mansfield Gun club shoot Sunday at 12 noon at the club range on Park avenue west road will be a $25 defense bond, club officials announced today.

Marksmen from Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Springfield, Mt. Gilead, Lexington, Bucyrus, Ashland and other cities are expected to be on hand for the event.

They'll also shoot for 1,000 pounds of fresh pork, all cuts, including cured hams and bacon.

New York Rens Scheduled Here

New York Renaissance, famous colored basketball team, and one of the greatest "show" teams of professional ranks, have been booked at Mansfield high school gym next Wednesday night.

President Joe Lesch of the City "A" league, promoting the game with Hank Rigney of Toledo, announced signing of the Rens today. Rigney is scouting around for a team capable of giving the Rens the kind of opposition that will make them step at their best

Bowman Nips Hedges Lead

Moves Into First Spot In Elementary League.

Bowman upset Hedges, 19-14 in the Mansfield elementary school cage league yesterday and today holds down first place on the loop ladder uncontested.

* * *

Taking the lead on the John Simpson floor in the first quarter, the Bowman team was never headed with Reynolds caging 11 points and Ladd eight.

Newman continued in third place by beating Woodland, 18-12 on the Simpson north floor.

Prospect moved into a tie for fourth with Woodland by beating Western, 16-14, at Appleseed while Bushnell dropped a tilt to West Fifth, 10-6, on the Hedges floor and moved to sixth place.

The last four rungs on the ladder remain unchanged with Western, Carpenter, West Fifth and Brinkerhoff filling them in that order.

In the other game yesterday, Carpenter blanked Brinkerhoff, 6-0, on an Appleseed floor.

CHAPTER XXI

"Shall we go and look them over?" Steve was gazing out the window. "I think I can qualify as a guide."

Linda started to refuse, thinking, "He's only being polite. He doesn't really want to go," but suddenly she was grasping at this one chance to have Steve to herself for one day. To have the memory to cherish.

* * *

Never before had Linda enjoyed herself as she did that day. Together they peered at the animals in Brookfield zoo. They studied the brilliantly colored fish in the aquarium, flashed up and down the lake in a speed boat, to emerge damp from the spray and weak with hilarious laughter.

Linda now saw a new Steve, audacious, amusing, delightfully modern and charming. Gone was the sober, industrious writer. They were mirth-provoking, fun-loving companions. Riding on the second story of a Michigan avenue bus, Linda said happily:

"I'm having the most marvelous time ever, Steve. 'You're—" she groped for a suitable word—"a marvelous guide," she finished lamely.

"Fun, huh?"

"Nothing better."

As they scrambled off the bus and climbed into the long, low-slung roadster, Steve said gaily: "What say we top everything off with hamburgers, with everything on?"

"Everything but onions," Linda wrinkled her nose.

Steve scoffed. "What's a hamburger without onions!"

"Better than a hamburger with onions."

Driving homeward after an orgy of hamburger sandwiches without onions, soda pop and fat, chocolate doughnuts, Linda relaxed contentedly against the leather seat.

"I'm saying it again, Steve. I had a wonderful day."

"So did I, Linda."

"Greg would think a day of sightseeing very, very dull." Linda had meant nothing by her mention of Greg's name, but she didn't know that Steve stiffened in the seat, his jaw grim.

"So would Brenda," he volunteered, and it was Linda's turn to flush, remembering the other woman in Steve's life. Miserable, unhappy, they said nothing more until the apartment had been reached. For each of them, unknowingly, their brief happiness was forgotten, lost in the depths of misunderstanding which, by a few simple words of explanation, could have been cleared away.

As it was, Steve strode grimly into the apartment to find a telegram lying on the oval hall table. He tore it open, scanned it briefly, and then called to Linda:

"Yes?"

"It's—it's bad news for you," Steve said.

"Oh, no!" Steve saw her whiten as she read the brief message:

"MOTHER GRAVELY ILL SUGGEST YOU COME AT ONCE."

"Steve, what shall I do?" Linda clung to him desperately, sobbing in his arms, not knowing how tenderly he held her, the expression in his eyes as he gazed down at the slim, shaking shoulders.

"I've been so cruel and thoughtless about mother . . . sometimes not writing for weeks at a time—and now—now—"

"Poor little girl," he whispered gently. "Don't blame yourself for this. It's not your fault."

"But it is," she insisted. "It is. If only I'd been more considerate. Instead I waited until she was sick and needed me. Steve, I'm so selfish!"

She reached for Steve's handkerchief to wipe away the tears.

"You'll leave on the next train, of course," he said, "I'll make your reservations. Have Ellen pack your bags."

* * *

Linda yearned to ask Steven to accompany her to Prairievale. Even in her moment of distress she dreaded the homecoming, the whispers, the talk she was sure her trip would precipitate. Still, she felt she could not ask him to do so. It would be better to keep her chin up, to go alone.

Glancing down at her simple sports frock, she whispered, "I'll have to change to something more practical for traveling."

"You'd better hurry then. I believe the train pulls out at nine, and it's after eight now."

The moment for which Steve had been waiting was past. Once again he was crisp and curt, as Linda fled to her bedroom to return, scant minutes later,—calm and ready to face any emergency.

"I'm ready, Steve," she said quietly.

"Good." He took her bags. "Have you any instructions for Ellen before you go?"

Linda took a long breath, glancing around the apartment as though she might never see it again. "No," she whispered. "I—I'd rather leave now, quickly, before I lose courage."

"You'll never lose courage," he assured her gravely. "I'm very proud of you tonight, Linda, my dear."

* * *

In the station, the noisy, brightly-lighted arc with its crowds of hurrying, busy people, Linda waited beside smart pigskin luggage while Steve purchased her tickets and wired her father that she was coming.

"The train is in, Steve," she said when he returned. "Perhaps I'd better get on."

"All right, Linda." So she didn't want him to be with her, even for a little while? He motioned a redcap to take her bags, and the boy hurried away before them. Pausing before her car, Linda turned swiftly to Steve, trying to smile with tears shining in her eyes.

"Would you like me to go with you?" he asked suddenly. "I will, if you want me to."

If only he would! Linda caught her breath, wanting to say yes, but then she knew he hadn't meant that. He was only trying to be helpful in her hour of anxiety.

"No, I believe I'd better go alone," she answered, heart-sick. "You've been wonderful to me, already, Steve." Tears were beginning to course down her cheeks. "If it hadn't been for you—"

"I've not done half enough."

Linda stared at Steve's handsome, bronzed face filled with compassion as he looked down at her. Then, suddenly, she was sobbing, her arms around his neck.

"Steve—I'm afraid to go back. Terribly afraid!"

"Courage . . . courage dear," he said gently, "She'll be all right. You'll see."

The sobbing subsided, and Linda relaxed wearily against him, oblivious of others in the station. Then, still holding her gently in his arms, Steve said huskily:

"There's something I've been waiting to say to you, Linda, for a long time."

Tear-filled eyes were lifted to his. "Yes?"

Steve hesitated. Was this the proper time, when Linda was beside herself with worry—when she was going to her mother's sickbed, to tell her that he loved her?

"It can wait," he decided aloud, smiling a little, "until you come home."

Home! Linda smiled wistfully. How good it sounded from Steve's lips. Their home! It thrilled and delighted her just to dwell on the thought, she was still smiling at him when Steve kissed her; caught her up hard against him and kissed her until she was breathless, and dizzy.

"Good-bye, Linda," he said, gently, releasing her. "Let me know if you need me."

He turned abruptly and left. Stars were in Linda's eyes, music in her heart as she clambored onto the train. Steve had kissed her! He had declared there was something he wished to say. With that knowledge, Linda was again strong and confident. Somehow everything would be all right!

Linda could not refrain from smiling at the irony of her return to Prairievale. Less than a year before she had been a shy, shabbily-dressed girl riding a dusty day coach to an uncertain destiny. Now, a wife of a celebrated novelist, dressed in the height of fashion, she returned—a visitor, summoned by illness.

As the train neared her destination, Linda peered anxiously from her drawing-room window to see her father waiting patiently on the station platform With a final glance in the mirror to make sure her hat was set at the correct angle, Linda approached the door, waving at John Phillips.

"Dad," she said when she was in his arms. There was a lump in her throat. Her eyes misted with tears. "It's so good to see you again!"

"My little girl," he answered huskily. "I was afraid you might not come."

STOCKS LOSE MILD EFFORT FOR REVIVAL

Westinghouse Among Leaders Listed as Hesitant on Day's Trading.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Attempts to revive the stock market today were too feeble to amount to much and leading issues continued in a slightly irregular area.

Attracting early mild support were Union Pacific, Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola, Du Pont, Union Carbide, Western Union, Great Northern, Bethlehem, Kennecott, Goodyear and Allied Chemical.

In the hesitant class most of the time were U. S. Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, American Smelting, Westinghouse, Southern Pacific and Air Reduction.

Financial quarters, studying the Bethlehem Steel statement released after yesterday's close, noted that, despite record sales for the corporation in 1941, net per common share for the year dropped to $9.35 against $14.04 in 1940. The discrepancy was attributed to a sharp upturn in taxes—these amounted to $110,002,700 versus $41,345,349 the year before—and other sizeable chargeoffs. It was not overlooked, though, that directors voted the usual $1.50 dividend on the junior issue.

HITLER HARPS ON OLD THEME

Charges 'Injustice' Assails Roosevelt and Churchill In Address.

not monarchy but our same enemies say that it is the system they are fighting.

"We have not wished to force our system upon others, and therefore we must ask what is the actual reason why our system is being fought.

"England which claims to be a democracy has forced her rule upon 380,000,000 Indians. England has throughout the centuries subjected one people after another.

"Ever since it has been England's principal aim to maintain her rule by preventing any other nation in Europe from rising."

Hitler declared England's aim had been to maintain the balance of power in Europe, and declared "they wanted a Europe divided against itself."

Saying the British had "conducted what they said was a war against war" because they wanted "to liberate Germany from militarism," the fuehrer asserted:

"If they had really meant it they should have given up the fruits of their own wars. . . .

"They did not want any change in society. They said that those who were born poor should remain poor and those born rich should remain rich. We national socialists, however, say that life cannot be fertilized . . . it is the essence of life that again and again the fittest will survive, and what is ripe for death should not be preserved."

Hitler said that "when the last war was over the conditions for war were not removed, nor were the instruments of war abolished."

The speech was relayed by all German radio stations as well as those throughout Italy, Finland, Rumania, Croatia and Manchukuo.

No Rush Expected As Deadline Falls On Auto Stamps

Although any motorist failing to display a use-tax sticker on his car in use after midnight tomorrow is liable to arrest and imprisonment, 11,900 Mansfield area motorists are going to heave a sigh of relief that they won't have to stand in line tomorrow at the last minute.

In spite of the fact that tomorrow is the deadline, all but 100 of the 12,000 use-tax stamps ordered by the Mansfield postoffice have been sold by both Auto club and postoffice.

"Only about 3,000 stamps were ordered today in order to finish out the final day," Assistant Postmaster W. T. Houston said.

Jack Berger, assistant Auto club secretary, stressed the fact that only if the car is in use, must a stamp be purchased. He said that a bulletin from American Automobile Association headquarters in Washington said that stamp owners were permitted to write their name and address on the stamp before affixing it to the car, in order to discourage theft of the sticker.

Failure to operate a motor vehicle without a use-tax sticker makes the offender liable to arrest by federal officers, and a $25 fine, or 30 days in jail or both.

As both the Auto club and the postoffice will close at noon tomorrow, motorists still driving without stamps are urged to purchase them before noon tomorrow. Neither Auto club nor postal officials expect a rush to buy stamps however, since the majority of registered car-users have purchased their stickers.
